

Fulton Raises Possibility

Even On First Offence

OTTAWA (CP)—The possibility of a maximum life sentence for drug trafficking—even for first offenders—was raised Thursday by Justice Minister Fulton.

Regarding drug trafficking sentences—the present maximum is 14 years—Mr. Fulton said in the Commons:

AMEND ACT

"... It would be our proposal to amend the act so that there might be a life sentence imposed even for the first offence; I refer not to a mandatory life sentence. ... That will depend, of course, on the circumstances and the nature of the crime."

He said the federal plan for treatment of narcotic addicts will force treatment on proven addicts who don't want it.

COMMITTED

Government legislation will be introduced soon providing that in cases where addicts are not sentenced to treatment they can either come forward voluntarily or be committed for treatment on the certificate of a properly-qualified examiner.

SIMILAR PROVISION

He hoped provincial governments would make a similar provision for non-criminal addicts. Mr. Fulton said the approach would be similar to that in dealing with mental illness, where persons can be committed to an institution when they are considered "dangerous to society."

Ghana Loses Crown

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—The representative of Queen Elizabeth was waved farewell here Thursday night as Ghana became a republic amid noisy celebrations.

Departing Governor-General Lord Listowel boarded a plane for Britain after a warm handshake from Premier Kwame Nkrumah.

Just before the airliner took off the governor-general turned to wave to the crowd.

A sea of hands waved back and there were cries of "good-bye" and "come back again."

Congo Premier Reminds Ex-Masters of 'Atrocities'

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo Republic (AP)—Premier Patrice Lumumba Thursday accused the Belgians of inflicting "atrocious sufferings" on the Congolese people in their 80 years of rule over this African land.

"We have known ironies and insults, the blows to which we have had to submit morning, noon and night because we are Negroes," Lumumba said at independence ceremonies attended by his parliamentary colleagues, assembled dignitaries of the church, the diplomatic corps and King Baudouin of Belgium.

Lumumba's words provided the only acid in the otherwise friendly speechmaking that inaugurated the new republic. A few hours later Lumumba, a former postal clerk once jailed by the Belgians on charges of inciting a nationalist riot, almost reversed himself.

He expressed his government's thanks to Baudouin and "the noble Belgian people" for their decision to free the Congo. He paid the tribute during an exchange of toasts with Baudouin outside the still unfinished parliament building and asked for "long and durable collaboration" with Belgium.

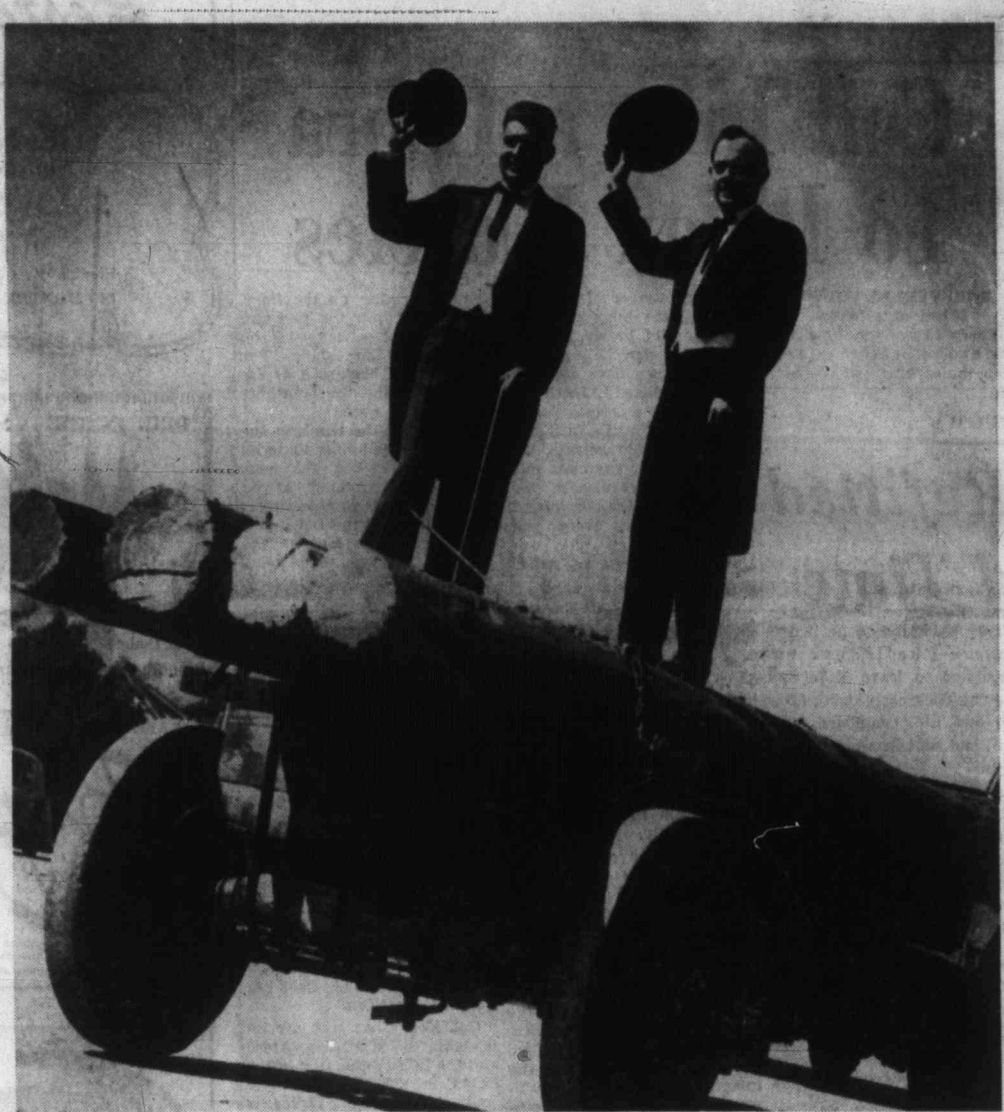

In Elisabethville independence came to the copper-producing area with smiles, cheers and handshakes between Negroes and whites.

Black and white inhabitants mixed happily together, with no sign of previous fears and bitterness, to hear speeches by Belgian and Congolese authorities and to cheer military parades and processions of children and adults in fancy dress.

'Obvious, Ominous Conflict' Charged by Defence Critic

(Special to the Colonist)

OTTAWA—A sharp clash between the department of external affairs and the defence department over the signing of an agreement with the United States to obtain supplies of nuclear warheads for new weapons in Canada appeared apparent from developments in the defence expenditures committee Thursday.

Parliament has been informed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Defence Minister George Pearkes that negotiations are underway with the United States. But External Affairs Minister Howard Green has informed the committee that no negotiations have been conducted by his department for the storage of nuclear warheads at Canadian bases.

"There is an obvious and perhaps ominous conflict" between Mr. Pearkes and Mr. Green over the conclusion of an agreement with the United States to make the warheads available to Canadian forces, Paul Hellyer, Liberal opposition defence critic, charged at the committee Thursday.

WHAT STAGE?

The former associate defence minister in the Liberal cabinet, made the charge after attempting for an hour to obtain a clear-cut statement from the government as to the stage at which negotiations stand with the U.S. government. The negotiations are understood to have been going on with the U.S. for 17 months concerning the acquisition of atomic weapons for Canadian forces.

TOOK OVER

The government's hesitancy about announcing a nuclear policy seems to have developed since Mr. Green took over the external affairs portfolio a year ago, according to Canadian Press.

It was assumed then and until recently that the government had definitely decided to acquire nuclear weapons for Canadian forces.

POLICY RETREAT

But on March 10 this year Mr. Green indicated a retreat from such a policy.

He was asked in the Commons external affairs committee whether it was still the decision of the government to use nuclear warheads.

"You will have to ask that of the defence department," Mr. Green replied.

HOW TO RECONCILE

He was asked how he could reconcile unqualified opposition to nuclear tests with acceptance of nuclear weapons for Canadian forces which could be developed only by tests.

"This is really a matter for the defence people," Mr. Green said. His department was "sticking to its own knitting."

HOLDING BACK

"There are reports that Mr. Pearkes has been pressing for an early conclusion of an agreement with Washington but that Mr. Green is holding back determined that no such agreement should be signed if there is any chance of reaching a disarmament agreement," Mr. Hellyer said.

Nepalese Killing Regretted

LONDON (UPI)—Premier Chou En-lai has told Nepal that he is "greatly concerned" that Chinese forces killed a Nepalese officer.

The new China News Agency reported from London Thursday that Premier Chou has promised to investigate.

"This week the prime minister of Nepal, B. P. Koirala, protested to Communist China for the incident in which a Nepalese officer was killed and 16 men captured by 2,000 Chinese troops near the boundary between Nepal and China."

Nikita Naps at Opera

By EDDY GILMORE

VIENNA (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev fell asleep Thursday night during the famed Vienna state opera's presentation of Mozart's "Magic Flute."

But Khrushchev didn't sleep long.

Mozart's opera is full of thunder, lightning, crashing cymbals and booming drums. Even Khrushchev couldn't sleep through that.

The 66-year-old premier—who arrived here on a state visit early Thursday—could hardly be blamed for his lapse.

He was tired—and justly so.

To get here at 10.30 a.m. from Moscow meant he had to rise shortly after dawn.

And ever since he arrived he's been busy.

He placed two wreaths, made two speeches, shook hundreds of hands, carried out three official calls, and ate a tremendous luncheon in a former palace of the Haps-

Was Caryl Chessman innocent after all? Is it possible that the man who died in the San Quentin, Calif., gas chamber May 2 after a 12-year legal battle, actually did not commit the "Red Light Bandit" crimes for which he was sentenced?

Yes, it is possible that he was innocent. The July number of Argosy magazine contains powerful evidence to support such a belief—evidence to raise the suspicion that the state of California killed the wrong man. "As those last moments of (Chessman's) life were being gasped away, Argosy's investigation team was working desperately against the clock to lay before the world proof that Caryl Chessman was innocent."

Chessman Gave Tip

Wasn't it? Argosy writers, digging through police and court files, claim to have found that identification of Chessman and his car by witnesses to the "Red Light Bandit" crimes was foggy; and that some of their descriptions fitted another man, Charles Terranova, and did not fit Chessman.

Chessman told police in 1948 that Terranova was the man to arrest. Police denied any knowledge of such a man; claimed that Chessman had dreamed him up.

Yet Terranova had a record of 10 felony convictions in the Los Angeles area.

"During Chessman's trial, while J. Miller Leavy, the prosecutor, was describing Terranova as a 'fiction,' Ter-

So William Woodfield and Milt Machlin wrote.

"That proof existed on May 2, and evidence then in the hands of California authorities clearly called for a complete investigation of the highly suspicious background of this case."

However, Gov. Pat Brown and his assistants said that Argosy's evidence was not strong enough to warrant a new investigation.

Police Were Corrupt

Los Angeles police department, then, was badly infected with corruption.

Chessman was a criminal. However, that does not mean he was the Red Light Bandit. It does not prove that he was guilty of the kidnapping for which he was sentenced to death.

Superior Court judge Charles W. Fricke, who presided at Chessman's trial, was a notorious "hanging judge." He handed out twice as many death sentences as any other judge in California history. His sentences were often reversed by higher courts.

Thomas Bartle, a dentist who was robbed by the Red Light Bandit, told police 10 minutes afterward that the bandit was "Thirty, five feet six, weight 150 pounds, stocky build . . . crooked teeth."

Mentally Ill Already

Her mother claimed that the attack caused her derangement. Some psychiatrists said she had been mentally ill already, at the time of the attack. Others disagreed. However, her testimony helped send Chessman to the gas chamber.

In court, she described the bandit as being only a little taller than herself (five feet four). When asked whether the bandit could have been six feet tall, as Chessman was, she said no. Yet she identified him as her assailant.

She said the bandit had a scar over his right eyebrow. Chessman had no such scar. Terranova had exactly such a scar.

There's much more to the case than that. However, those details in themselves seem enough to create a reasonable doubt. The courtroom wrangling since that time has not been over the foregoing evidence, but over legal technicalities.

COBRA EXERCISE DOES WONDERS FOR BACK

B.C. Controls Archaeology Excavation

A five-member advisory board has been set up to regulate archaeological exploration and excavation in B.C.

The board, chaired by provincial anthropologist Wil- son Duff, will keep track of explorers and check industrial developers who might blunder into archaeological finds.

The "Red Light Bandit" preyed on cars parked in lovers' lanes, held them up with a gun, robbed them and sometimes molested the girl involved.

True, Chessman was none too savory a character. "His main enterprise in 1948, he has admitted, was sticking up and shaking down brothels and bookie joints, most of which were operating with police protection. This does much to explain his unpopularity with the law around

Los Angeles at this time."

Three months later, under oath, Lea volunteered: "And I never told the police you had crooked teeth."

Mary Alice Meza, 17, was the chief state witness against

Chessman. Twenty months

after she had been attacked by the Red Light Bandit, she was committed to a mental hospital.

The Argosy investigation is still going on. If Chessman is finally proven innocent—as he may have been—people who favor the death penalty will be in a touchy position.

That's the trouble about the death penalty. No one, even after a long trial, can be 100 per cent certain of guilt. Men have been sent to their deaths

before by a series of coincidences and by the guilty conviction of witnesses, prosecutors and police.

But the death sentence is final. You can't rub out your mistake and do it over again.

Yoga for You

Coil Like a Cobra To Relax Muscles

By BEVERLEY WILSON
(Fifth of a Series)
Ready to rear your head back like a cobra? It's the next basic step in learning yoga—and a startling number of people of all ages are busy practising these ancient Indian postures.

Since it's especially good for relaxing tense back and neck muscles, Richard L. Hittleman, yoga expert, suggests you do it when you finish a hard day's work. It should refresh you.

Unlike many exercises moderns do, yoga releases your energy, rather than draining it.

And remember, every yoga exercise is done very, very slowly, to stretch every muscle in your body.

Here's how Hittleman

teaches the cobra:

● Lie on the floor face down, the forehead resting on the floor, arms at the sides with the palms facing upward, feet together, also resting on the floor and extended straight outward. In this position the upper chest will be slightly raised from the floor. Relax, breathe easily.

● Focus eyes upon an imaginary point extending a short distance outward from between the eyebrows. Lift the forehead from the floor and bend the neck backward, moving only the head.

● When your chin is well off the floor, slowly raise the trunk as far as possible without the aid of the arms. Continuous focus eyes on the imaginary point extending outward from between the eyebrows, as this will aid in the lifting of the trunk. Do not move the legs.

● When you've raised the trunk as far as you can, in the manner described in step 3

(and at first this will be only a few inches, we're afraid), maintain the position and bring the arms up from the sides.

Place the hands on the floor

beneath the upper chest in such a manner that the palms are resting on the floor with the middle fingers of either hand facing each other.

● Rest the weight of your body on the hands and continue to raise the trunk, eyes focused on the imaginary

point and neck slowly bending backward. The pressure on the spinal column is gradually shifted so that each vertebra is brought into play successively. Do not raise the trunk stiffly in this movement, but allow it to curve naturally so that it is "swayback."

● Continue to raise the trunk to a comfortable limit and maintain this position only for several seconds in the beginning. If you can do it without strain (don't overexert) raise the entire trunk

so that only the lower part

St. Joseph's Orderlies Win Awards

Award for highest achievement among St. Joseph's Hospital orderlies was presented to Toni Vink by medical supervisor Dr. E. N. Boettcher.

Mr. Vink was one of four orderlies who received "A" certificates after some 36 months of practical experience and 4 lectures followed by examinations.

Other members of the group to receive special awards were Jim Beaubien, highest marks in orthopedics, and Les Bentley, highest marks in urology.

"A" certificate also went to Hugh Grieg, Edgar Kaldenberg, Walter Holt, Arvid Tallava and John Woychesin qualified for "B" certificates after completing 18 months' training.

Hospital administrator Sister Superior Mary Ann Celesta presented each member of a graduating group with a pin. Certificates were handed out by Dr. A. G. Vey, chief of medical staff at St. Joseph's.

The $5,000-ton supertanker Universe Challenger was scheduled to leave Esquimalt graving dock early today after Yarrows Ltd. completed overhaul and refit in a record four days.

A spokesman for the yard said yesterday the water would be pumped back into the dock starting at 5 a.m. and the giant tanker cleared three hours later.

Universe Challenger, owned by National Bulk Carriers, a U.S. firm, entered the government graving dock Sunday for her annual overhaul and refit.

Minor repairs carried out by the local yard included replacing one ton of special Burmese hardwood packing around the propeller shaft.

This necessitated removal of the single screw weighing 60,000 pounds.

The supertanker is scheduled to return to the run between Sumatra and California carrying crude oil. Her relieving captain is a Canadian, Capt. J. A. Tullis.

Fire Hazard Moves Up Across B.C.

The forest fire hazard in all B.C. forest districts moved up to "moderate" on the B.C. forest service scale this week.

The service's weekly forest fire report said yesterday coastal areas can expect cloudy weather with sunny periods next week, with some rain possible in the north.

Ninety-nine new blazes were reported during the week, costing $2,201 to fight. Cost of 589 fires this year has been $38,353, compared with 970 fires and $148,703 in the same time last year.

Flies Killed Smell Stays

An area soaked with septic tank effluent and infested with moth flies was sprayed with DDT this week, three weeks after medical health officer Dr. A. N. Beattie informed a Saanich council meeting it was a health hazard.

But Edmund Burke, 644 Baker, wasn't very happy.

WATERLOGGED

Already critical of the delay in spraying the 40-by-20-foot waterlogged area behind his home on the slope down to Foot's Bottom, Mr. Burke could see only temporary relief from part of the nuisance.

"The spray will kill the flies for the time being," he said, "but the smell and the soginess will remain."

Although effluent from septic tanks higher up the slope, and not his, is causing the trouble, he said, he would be willing to share the cost

'Prove My Guilt' Burglar Jailed

A two-year jail term was given to Paul Harry Schultz, 24, in Saanich police court yesterday after Magistrate William Ostler refused to allow Schultz to change his plea to not guilty.

"All I can say is, a man is innocent until proven guilty except in this country," Schultz said. "I would like to be proven guilty."

"If you don't like my judgment you can appeal," the magistrate replied.

Schultz, 2914 Douglas Street, earlier admitted burglary and theft of $400 from a safe at Ellison Milling and Elevator Co. Ltd., 550 Cuddehul.

He wanted to change his plea because he was "shook up" at the time—his girl had left him.

"Every consideration has been given to you," the magistrate said yesterday.

"I do not feel you have advanced any reasonable argument to change your plea."

When Julius Roland Drescher, 980 Lodge, admitted throwing empty bottles on the Patricia Bay Highway, near Elk Lake, the magistrate asked:

"Do you think you are entitled to throw your garbage on the side of the road? Can you imagine what the countryside would be like if everyone threw their refuse there?" Drescher was fined $25.

In city court, Cryula Kiss pleaded guilty to driving a motorcycle without a headlight, tail light, licence-illuminating light, muffler, rear-view mirror, rear fender and horn.

He got until Wednesday to show police the machine had been "all fixed up."

Magistrate Ostler rejected a plea for leniency from Harry Froelich, who got 30 days on pleading guilty to vagrancy after being caught begging on Johnson.

Froelich said he was an alcoholic, didn't dare steal for fear of being charged as a habitual criminal and "must have done 10 years and I'm not very old yet."

A. G. Cunningham, 3530 Salisbury, was fined $25 on each of two charges of failing to pay employees twice a month. Court was told Cunningham owed one employee $515.90 and another $91.12.

Owners in full agreement Corvair "Car of the Year"

Even before Motor Trend magazine's experts voted Corvair "Car of the Year," enthusiastic owners were making their own assessment and coming to the same conclusion. Read what some of them say.

H. Heitman, Tofoeld, Alta.
"I would recommend anyone interested in buying into the small car field to first try Corvair for overall riding comfort and ease of handling."

Mr. and Mrs. Nisbitt Schreiber, Ont.

"We believe our Corvair has all the features we like in a car, plus style, luxury ride, and small car economy."

Louis Hagel, Beiseker, Alta.
"It has a good response to acceleration and over rough spots the car gives a smooth ride."

Jack Brickett
Moose Jaw, Sask.

"In my opinion it has more real car value for its price than any car I have ever owned."

Mrs. L. I. Taylor
North Battleford, Sask.

"I sincerely want to congratulate your company on designing such an attractive car with so many comfortable and convenient features built into it."

Achille Maillet
Moncton, N.B.

"Since economy is of primary importance, the Corvair not only meets our demands in this area, but also retains the comfort and convenience found in larger cars."

George W. Chisholm
Toronto, Ont.

"The Corvair truly amazed me with its superb handling and economy under the most difficult conditions imaginable."

Norman E. Willson
Boswell, B.C.

"It is a pleasure to have a product that outperforms the manufacturer's claims."

F. W. Bates
Hunts Point, Nova Scotia

"As a mechanical engineer with forty years' experience, I consider the Corvair to be the greatest advance in automotive engineering to date."

I have just driven my Corvair through one of the worst winters experienced on the N.S. coast without snow tires, and at all times felt as much at ease as if on dry pavement.

I think Corvair an excellent winter car.

In regard to riding comfort, I think the Corvair equals most of the large cars that I have driven and certainly requires much less effort to drive.

The good riding and driving qualities of Corvair are of course due to the very low centre of gravity and correct weight distribution, also reduction of unsprung weight."

Robert Beabout
Prince Albert, Sask.

"This new concept of automotive engineering and design is surely one of the greatest steps forward in the industry within the last decade."

It is a startling new adventure with its positive yet light feel of the road and instantaneous response and power.

All these advantages coupled with its tremendous economy of operation, to me make it undoubtedly the best buy of the year."

P. Connor
Niagara Falls, Ont.

"The sleek styling, comfortable ride, ease of handling, clear vision, and sports car feel, sold my wife and I on a Corvair."

Having now travelled 3,300 miles in my Corvair, I am still as enthusiastic about my car as the day I bought it.

This compact car has put a new pleasure into driving for both my wife and myself, and if I could afford a second car for my family, it would be another Corvair."

W. Bechtholt
Wainwright, Alta.

"When the three 'Small Cars' came out on the market, I was very interested in purchasing one for my taxi business. After having read as much information that was available and taking them on actual road tests, I came to the conclusion that the Corvair was the ideal car."

My customers' reaction to the Corvair is very good. The most often made comment is the convenience and comfort. I have found the automatic transmission ideal for this type of work. The placing of the engine in the rear has assisted greatly in the roadability of the car."

Ken Lampard
Dawson Creek, B.C.

"The steering and handling qualities of Corvair are perfect, even over the roughest roads."

Corvair's compact six cylinder aluminum engine has tremendous performance, with ample reserve power for safety in passing, plus excellent economy."

The Corvair is without doubt the best dollar value on the market as a result of its exclusive design and advanced engineering features."

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Crawley
Saint John, N.B.

"After 39 years of driving experience as a private chauffeur and motor mechanic, during which time I have driven all makes and sizes of automobiles, I find the Chevrolet Corvair to be a wonderfully engineered automobile, with easy steering and positive traction for all road conditions."

The Corvair's riding qualities are unparalleled even by most larger vehicles. I am thoroughly delighted to have chosen Corvair for my personal car."

B. R. Kesteven
Oakville, Ont.

"Quickest starting engine in the lowest temperature I have ever encountered."

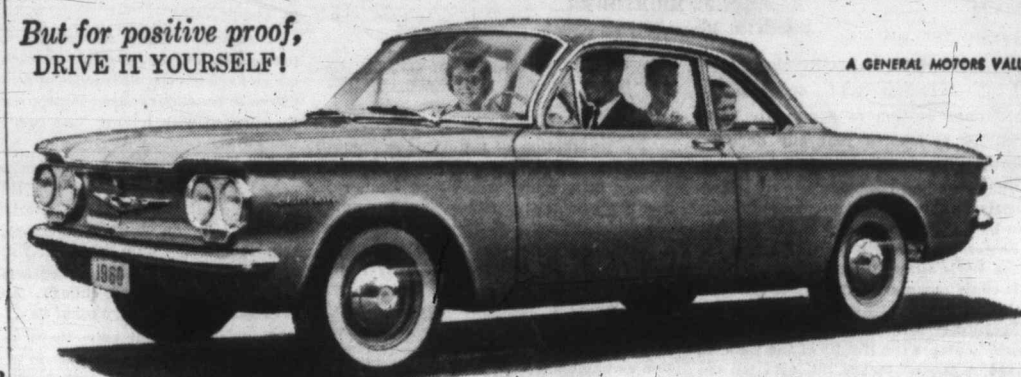

This is the best steering and handling car I have ever had the pleasure to drive."

I have never driven any car that matches the rear wheel traction the Corvair has on snow, ice or slippery surfaces."

The ride of this compact car never ceases to delight me as it cruises along the highway, matching larger cars in a flat, level, cushioned, stable glide."

From Each His Best

THIS is Canada's ninety-third birthday, measured from the act of union which achieved confederation. It is a time for the nation to look forward to ripening fulfilment of the clearly seen vision which was in the hearts of members of that long-ago Parliament of 1867, and back over the distance that has been travelled inside of a single century. There are ills of the moment—as there have been ills in all times—but nobody in this nation could well believe that Canada has reached an insurmountable barrier to its progress on the one hand, or the Everest of its dreams on the other. The truth, as a challenge to everyone in the nation, rests somewhere in between.

It is self-flattering to think of the steady and well sustained progress that has been accomplished in the first half of this century, in spite of the convulsions of a world in much turmoil. In population, in wealth, in the standard of living and in many other ways successive new peaks have been conquered one after the other. Deeper, and in the end more significant, are those human progressions towards self-control, balance, education and tolerance which enrich the individual and the nation alike. In the long run any nation—and Canada especially with its broad terrain fronting on major oceans of the world—will be expression of its people and their efforts in development of those assets which Providence has provided so lavishly.

In part it is a new Canada today. Added to the generations of its pioneers and their descendants has been unprecedented influx of migrants from many parts of the world. With these new pioneers there continue to come new acts and fresh skills, a revived and living belief in the dignity of human kind, and the essential concept—not of licence but of freedom within the law. In that wide framework and using those national traits which this land has slowly been developing there is no reason to fear that, whatever the summit of Canada's destiny, it will be kept in sight and approached as steadily in the future as it has been in the past. The land that we love is still in its vibrant youth, and its destiny will be what each one of us helps to fashion, out of our dreams.

Looming Brightly Ahead

THE future of Victoria's university looms brightly. The drive for funds to meet the Victoria College expansion is meeting with success, exceeding most initial expectations and indicating how ripe was this area for the establishment of a university. Parents of the future will have cause to bless the development and as a university town Victoria should early make its mark.

The latest step forward is the creation by the college council of a special board which will direct the new building programs and guide the university's future progress. It will include individuals prominent in the fund-raising drive, and will oversee the best use of the Lansdowne and Gordon Head campuses. The latter comprise spacious room for all needed facilities, and jointly will enable the local university to fulfill its aims.

Coincidentally, the Capital Improvement District Commission is said to be interested in the reconstruction of Foul Bay Road from the waterfront to the Mount Tolmie campus. This is good news, for the CIDC can go ahead where municipipalities find it difficult to make such improvements, and to date it has done fine things for the local area. If it takes the renovation of this stretch of roadway in hand this will cap the establishment of the university with an appropriate avenue of its front door.

It has been suggested that the name of Foul Bay Road should be changed to University Drive, and while it is the anchorage of the bay that is foul in marine terms and not the street itself such a change would emphasize the reality of a university town. In any case some parts of this road are badly in need of renovation.

One other name change is related. In that for all of its new status the official title of the Mount Tolmie institution is still Victoria College and nothing has been done to fit the name to its higher classification. It would be an anomaly if a fine fresh avenue was created and labelled University Drive and it ended up against a notice board proclaiming Victoria College. Perhaps this is one of the things that might be given attention by the new college planning board.

Preserving Natural Beauty

THOSE who have been pleading with government and municipal authorities to reserve at least a few public areas in their natural state on the outskirts of the metropolitan region will be delighted with the disposition made of Thomas S. Francis Park. They have Mr. Francis himself to thank for this.

In giving his 162-acre tract of woodland adjoining Thetis Lake to the people in the name of the province, Mr. Francis has stipulated that it is not to be developed, beyond a minimum necessary to provide access. A board of management appointed to administer the park has wisely interpreted this condition to mean the cutting of a few simple trails; but there will be no buildings or anything else to mar the natural wild land beauty of the park.

This is a pleasing breakaway from the prevailing idea that every piece of land owned by the public and designated as a park must be "improved." Some parks lend themselves to development, but public bodies and organizations are too much inclined to the belief that a park can only be made attractive or useful to the public if it has a lot of appurtenances added.

An urban region needs improved parks to provide playgrounds and picnic spots, but it also badly needs tracts of wild land for the pleasure of those who like to maintain some contact with nature. Mr. Francis is a far-sighted man who has recognized the danger of sprawling development gobbling up all that is left of the unspoiled land within easy reach of Victoria, and has by the wise terms of his gift to the province made sure that the part from which he himself has derived so much enjoyment shall not go the same way.

Interpreting the News

Nuclear Pact in Doubt

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's action in breaking off disarmament negotiations at Geneva apparently postponed for at least a year any hope of checking the nuclear arms race.

The move had been foreseen by Allied officials although it came more quickly than they expected. It was in the pattern of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's blowup of the Paris summit conference.

It could mean a further intensification of the cold war.

President Eisenhower will have a chance to assess the results of the Geneva collapse when he makes his televised report on his far eastern tour.

The only surprise element in the Soviet manoeuvre was the speed with which it came. Valerian Zorin, the Russian disarmament negotiator, had repeatedly accused the United States and its allies of stalling.

His tactics led to the belief here that Khrushchev intended to apply to Geneva negotiations the line he took at the summit conference—that it would not be possible to reach any agreement with the United States so long as Eisenhower remained president.

No resumption of negotiations, therefore, can be foreseen until after the change in administrations next January, and until an additional few months during which a new U.S. executive and new secretary of state will figure out their policies—altogether, at least a year from now.

Collapse of the disarmament talks, which had been deadlocked from the moment they began, raises a serious question as to whether negotiations among the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union for a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests will not also be called off. There is a strong pressure within the government here to resume testing. If the Geneva talks on testing completely collapse, the pressure on Eisenhower from the defence department and the Atomic Energy Commission will be great.

"NOW YOU KNOW WHY VAUDEVILLE IS DYING!"

Thinking Aloud Was Dulles Right?

... of shoes and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

WHEN I got back from vacation a few days ago a letter from a reader awaited me—dated June 30, by the way, which was yet a little bit off.

It rather poured scorn on my naïveté, too; but then I am often unworried.

Before I went away I had wondered—apparently—I forgot these things so easily—where the hanging flower basket idea came from. Innocently I had mentioned I once saw such civic baskets in a small Scottish town and asked rhetorically who first thought of this delightful innovation.

My correspondent tells me. At least he goes to Britain a lot and he says in effect that over these baskets are all over the place. The most beautiful he saw last year were in Reading; they were gorgeous. And he is sure the idea didn't originate here.

Nobody said it did, as a matter of simple truth.

Britain is crazy about flowers, he advises me further, and every spot where there might be flowers there they are. This is nice to know, for flowers are good to look on. I had a notion people were pretty crazy about flowers here too, judging by what my eyes see, and I could think of a few spots in Britain where flowers could grow but don't.

But I wouldn't detract a bit from Britain's love of floral decoration, public or private.

My gentle pleasure over our own hanging baskets, however, seems to offend my correspondent. He goes on to put Victoria—and yours truly with it, I suppose—in its place. We are "terribly provincial"; we should "grow up" and not think this city has "the best of everything in the world."

Look how cold it is, for instance—here we are nearing the end of June and the furnace going every day! Alas! And what with the winds we have—"they go right through one"—we should advertise Victoria as the "windy city."

Yes, it's windy, and maybe that admission will placate my correspondent. Victoria is a sweeter town, but then if it's seldom too hot it's seldom too cold. Its mean temperature is not to be despised.

This writer, for one, has sampled 50 below and 120 above and, no doubt smugly, he now finds Victoria a happy compromise.

I shouldn't think we can be too provincial, either, else we wouldn't try so hard to copy the modes of other places to boost our tourist allure; we'd be satisfied with having "the best in the world."

Anyway, as my correspondent puts it, "this is just to tell you that many people are not sold on Victoria." My heart bleeds with regret when I hear this, or it would do so did I not know that some 120,000 people seem to like this area well enough. And newcomers arrive every other day.

However, undoubtedly there are many fine residential areas in the world. To each his own, with or without a furnace.

Only one aspect remains anent this missive which lay in wait for me. The writer of it heads his letter "Saatchi" but says he doesn't live here—but occasionally comes on a visit.

Why, I am inclined to wonder, does he bother?

Smiles No Substitute for Policy

By RONALD COLLISTER

WAS Old Ironsides, John Foster Dulles, right after all? Scanning the mounds of wreckage around the world since the West began being "flexible" after Dulles' death, it looks as if the malignant iron man of cold war politics had the right formula for dealing with the Russians.

On the theory that people abuse you only when they are afraid of you, Dulles was a fearsome man.

When Dulles practised his "I won't-budge" diplomacy, Communism stood in awe of the West's moral code and its strength to defend it.

The story since Dulles' death is one of Communist indifference to U.S. reaction, or humiliation heaped upon humiliation for the United States.

However, that flexibility is about to disappear with dramatic suddenness. It came in with the evolution from Stalinism to something better in Russia. It is going out with the return from that "something better" to Stalinism. Therefore, the United States is going to have to switch to tough foreign policies to combat the return to some aspects of Stalinism.

The chaos in Japan is regarded by many people here as a pure Stalinist tactic, to fan discontent into a vicious and bloody crisis, despite the democratic will of the majority. Russia avoided this tactic during the year of lull before the summit meeting. Now it's back in business again.

The feeling in the state department is that there should now be a return to "old-fashioned" diplomacy, which means "let's cut out the nonsense."

The Madison Avenue technique has been tried and it failed. Smiles and propaganda are not a good substitute for policy. Only if you have a very good policy can you have good propaganda.

Therefore, the triple humiliation of the past month, the summit failure, the cancellation of Ike's visits to Russia and Japan, will have this advantage, stronger and more realistic policies and stronger leadership from the White House.

The argument that the United States, bruised beyond endurance by this series of events, will sink back into isolationism is unsound. Such a course is no longer possible.

There is certain to be a movement back to the Fortress America concept because eventually, when the deterrent ICBMs can devastate any target in the Communist world, the need for overseas bases will be much less.

At present, the U.S.-Japanese security pact is vital because of the need to encircle Communism at close range with such bases. In 10 years, when the pact is reviewed, that need may have expired.

Canada is also involved in the deep uncertainty of changing defence patterns. While it is threatened by manned bombers, a threat expected to last at least 10 years, it must have a line of defence against them—a defence to be supplied by the Bomarc B anti-aircraft missile. The certainty of obsolescence doesn't detract from their life-saving role now.

The role of the Japanese bases will show a similar shift.

However, isolationism in a political and economic sense can never happen again.

The future will see carried out the new conviction that personal diplomacy is not what it's cracked up to be and that personal contact is a job for ambassadors. Fire will be fought with fire.

Watch for big-stick diplomacy. Khrushchev's visit to Cuba, just 90 miles from the U.S. doorstep, may be the cue for tough U.S. action against Cuba, a severance of diplomatic relations, and an end of the sugar quota under which the U.S. pays above world prices for Cuban sugar.

The campaign for recognition of Red China is slipping badly in the new mood and the U.S. is expected to spend much more money on defence and propaganda to give teeth to its stronger policies. In short, the cold war is back in the deep freeze.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN the club car a party of four Americans, middle-aged and obviously well-to-do married couples, were remarking amiably on the scenery as we journeyed through characteristic Canadian countryside, passing little villages and flag stations, stopping for a minute or two in occasional larger towns. There was no actual disparagement in what they were saying. But the things they commented upon were the differences between such Canadian aspects as factories, buildings, motor traffic, and their counterpart in whatever section of the United States they hailed from.

Sitting next to me and across the aisle from the American party was an elderly man with a square face and alert blue eyes. It was difficult not to hear what the tourists were saying. And at one or two of their comments I happened to glance at my neighbor, and I could see a flush mounting his cheeks and his eyes starting to glitter. Finally, one of the ladies made some witty remark about a peculiarly stiff and stark farmhouse we passed.

"Humph!" said my rosy-faced neighbor.

The Americans looked at him and the nearest one said:

"Sorry. No offence meant."

"Oh, that's all right," said my neighbor jovially. "You should hear us when we're travelling in your country!"

Plain Talk

Wisdom in the Senate

By CLYDE BLACKBURN, from Ottawa

WHEN one tires of gloomy news in the statistics, summit failures, unemployment problems and political bickering he can read the Senate Hansard.

Not enough people read it. Nor visit the galleries to hear the senators. There you can hear plain talk from ex-politicians who now have no further worries about the constituents. Except to worry about the welfare of all of them. Their political fights are over and their positions secure. Not positions of great wealth and power but comfortable.

It is true that not enough of them give voice to their independent thoughts and exercise the eloquence that is theirs. But some do, such as Jean Francois Pouliot, the lawyer from Riviere-du-Loup who is a noted authority on several specialized branches of ancient Quebec and Canadian laws.

He was a member of the House of Commons as a Liberal representative of Temiscouata from 1924 until appointed to the Senate in 1955. Senator Pouliot is now 70 years old but full of fight as he always was and never the conformer.

So when I looked in the Senate Hansard to see what they were saying about the desirability of getting into the big European trade blocs, with multilateral treaties, I got intrigued by the Pouliot speech.

"A multilateral agreement in trade cannot be profitable in a small country like Canada," he said. And thus went against the arguments of most of his associates.

He associated multilateral trade agreements with the old League of Nations now succeeded by the United Nations and told about his visit to the New York headquarters.

"I was the only one of the parliamentarians who paid for his trip to visit that huge building and see the reclining chairs, the cheap drinks, etc., and the people walking around like illustrious Russian dancers," he said.

Well, his point was that all the delegates to the UN, particularly the Canadians, were doing was trying to "gild their blazon and their shield," and that multilateral agreements are their fanciest and most cherished schemes.

Mr. Pouliot believes in Canada making bilateral trade agreements with any countries that want to do business, and perhaps he has something there.

And he believes every Canadian diplomat abroad from the ambassador to the lowest clerk should be a Canadian trade agent. He accepts the fact the countries in Europe and elsewhere, put on their feet after the war with American aid, now feel no sense of gratitude or obligation. They have to be sold the value of doing business with Canada.

And so, he concluded, if his senatorial-colleagues disagreed with him then he would feel like moping that all votes for Canadian representation abroad be reduced to one dollar.

He suggested that members make a note of the day he spoke, June 15, 1960, and see how it would line up with the history of the years to come.

That is Jean Francois, one of the most colorful and gentlemanly personages on Parliament Hill.

With the Classics

Here, in this little Bay,
Full of tumultuous life and great repose,
Where, twice a day,
The purposeless, glad ocean
Comes and goes,
Under high cliffs, and far from
The huge town,
I sit me down.

For want of me the world's course will not fail;
When all its work is done, the lie
shall rot;
The truth is great, and shall prevail,
When none cares whether it prevail or not.

Lake-Ski Boatmen Fined $20

Water skiing on Elk Lake June 12 resulted in two men being fined $10 each in Saanich police court yesterday.

They were charged under a new law governing the use of power boats in inland waters, which requires operators of boats towing skiers to carry another person in the boat to watch the skier as a safety measure.

Although both were charged with being operators of boats which contravened the law, only one man, Fred Stein, 3300 Maplewood, was driving one of the boats.

The other, Patrick Medd, 639 Langford, was fined as owner of a boat although he was not operating it at the time. Both men pleaded guilty and Medd said he felt he was morally responsible.

Maximum fine is $500 but Mr. Oester told both men he took into account the fact that the legislation is fairly new.

King Fisherman Contest

Hard-to-Win Crests Island Anglers' Aim

It is becoming a big accomplishment to win a Prince Crest in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest — and a crest is becoming a big aim for Vancouver Island anglers.

Prince Crests are awarded to the anglers catching the 25 biggest fish each month in each of the five divisions — trout, bass, coho, spring and tye. That means there are 125 crests awarded each month, but even at that they are hard to win with thousands of anglers fishing Island waters.

The big challenge is to win all five crests, which has never been done. Mrs. Len Francis of Comox won four crests before the small-mouthed bass were entered in the contest.

Colin Menzies of Victoria has already won three crests this year — trout, bass and coho. His partner Ray Wallis has won two and expects to win his third in June. Bob Wright had hopes to win four crests in June and it looks like he might manage three of them.

It appears that it will take a 7-6 coho; a 22-5 spring; a 4-0 trout and a 3-0 bass to win Prince Crests for June. All five salmon — so far only one entry has been received — caught in June will win crests.

Forest Firm Asked For Second Park

By ALEC MERRIMAN

ALBERNI—Recreation Minister Earle Westwood and M. J. Foley of the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River yesterday opened the 43-acre Sproat Lake park, formerly Smith's Landing, and Mr. Westwood used the opportunity to ask Mr. Foley to donate another 40-acre site on Sproat Lake for a provincial camping park.

The park, which has operated as a camping and picnic site in the Alberni for a century, was donated to the government May 13, 1959, by the MacMillan and Bloedel Co. H. R. MacMillan himself was on hand yesterday with a score of other dignitaries to see the park dedicated for the people for all time.

Mr. Foley said in the last four years before the park was

Hands Across Border

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI)—The second annual International Freedom Festival is expected to make today's Dominion Day parade the biggest in Windsor's history.

Hundreds of marchers from Detroit will join Windsor groups in the observance of Canada's 93rd birthday.

The festival, inaugurated last year, is an expression of international goodwill between the people of Detroit and Windsor, embracing both Dominion Day and the Fourth of July.

Canada Adds Flour Gift As Refugee Year Ends

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is making an additional gift of $1,000,000 worth of flour to mark the official end Thursday of World Refugee Year.

External Affairs Minister Green told the Commons. Details would be given later.

Entry into Canada of refugees suffering from tuberculosis is continuing, with the first part of the second group to be admitted, due to arrive in a few days, he said.

The flour is in addition to gifts already made to the UN refugee organization of $1,500,000 in flour and $500,000 cash.

The additional gift "will be very beneficial because it will mean that other funds will be available to the organization, and the proceeds from the sale of the flour will be used to open two vocational schools in refugee areas."

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

I have no patience with those people who say children should not be in church. If a child can only attend either Sunday school or church, then let the child come to church. Nor should they sit in classes. Let them sit with their parents. If a little child is normal and healthy, he will wiggle and talk, so an adult should sit with him.

Enough of this nonsense that the child doesn't understand! He will grow into understanding. Children can worship, can sing hymns, say "amen," study the symbolism, and "belong." The child can learn appreciation and loyalty.

The church exists for the worship and service of God. The primary aim for children is to impart attitudes of reverence and love and to form habits of thinking and behavior.

Not that I disapprove of Sunday school. But Sunday school should be for adults, too. Families should study together, even as families should worship together. Children should be accompanied to Sunday school, not sent. Of course there should be separate classes.

Every church should plan programs and provide equipment for its youth, but doesn't the church make a great mistake in not making demands upon its youth? Most young people don't do anything for their church.

Few communicant classes ever think of presenting a gift to the church. Few youth groups ever think of cleaning up the summer camp. Many young people think they do the church a great service if they come to be entertained.

That church which keeps its youth primarily by entertainment, by providing gymnasiums and dance halls, will end by losing them. Such youth have little humility and less gratitude. An indulgent church is as bad as an indulgent parent. Churches have too many money-raising organizations.

Sincere Ally

Graham Stills Clerics' Fears

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International

When Billy Graham began his evangelistic crusades 10 years ago, he was a controversial figure.

Many Protestant clergymen looked askance at the Madison Avenue ballyhoo, the "circus atmosphere" of his meetings. They questioned the validity of his conversions. They charged his "narrow fundamentalist preaching" would drive educated people away from Christianity.

Behind this was a suspicion—well grounded in the history of revivals—that Graham planned to glorify and enrich himself by leading his followers into a "Graham cult" outside of the established churches.

Some churchmen still question Graham's methods and motives. But they are getting scarcer all the time. Most respect Graham as a sincere ally who is making a valuable, if specialized contribution to the common cause.

His acceptance by established churches, including such old-line bodies as Lutherans and Episcopalians, is attested by their willingness to sponsor his crusades.

Graham has made it clear his only ambition is to start a genuine spiritual revival with the existing churches. Finances of his crusades have been handled impeccably.

First Victory For Jokers

Jokers scored their first win of the season in the Senior "B" Lacrosse League last night, downing Foul Bay Tugmen, 11-8, at Stevenson Park. Doug Flynn and Harry Connors led Jokers with three goals each, while Doug Bam-brough scored four and Keith Lawrence three for Tugmen.

Portland Golfer Leads B.C. Open

VANCOUVER—Bob Duden, a 10-year professional from Portland, Ore., grabbed the halfway lead in the 72-hole $3,000 B.C. Open golf tournament here yesterday, shooting a two-under-par 69 for a total of 137 and a two-stroke lead. Most players carded scores two or three strokes higher than they did Thursday as officials moved 16 of the 18 pins to more difficult lies, and the one who suffered most was little Don Ross, the first-round leader. Ross, who carded a brilliant 66 Thursday, soared to a 75 yesterday and a share of fourth place.

Tied in second place were amateur Bert Tiedhurst, whose four-under-par 67 was the finest round of the day, and defending champion Lyle Crawford, head pro at Vancouver's Langara club, who muffed a short putt on the 18th green and finished with a 70.

Whipper, Kit Win Feature

Whipper Billy Watson and Kit Fox defeated Gene Kiniski and Ripper Leone in three falls last night to win the main event of the professional wrestling card before close to 2,000 fans at Memorial Arena. Mike Mazurki beat Curt Iuka in three falls in the semi-main event, and Kiniski took seven minutes to pin Fox in a special one-fall bout. Fred Barron of Vancouver and Eric Froelich wrestled to a draw in the opener.

Susan Butt Eliminated

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (CP)—Susan Butt of Victoria was eliminated in quarter-final women's singles play at the Tennessee Valley invitational tennis tournament Thursday. Miss Butt was defeated 6-1, 7-5 by Roberta Allison of Alexander City, Ala.

Playoff Hopes Dimmer As Vics Beaten Again

NEW WESTMINSTER—Victoria's playoff hopes in the Inter-City Lacrosse

League were dealt another body blow here last night as New Westminster's Mann Cup champions ran wild in the first half and coasted to a 15-11 victory. Vics, beaten 12-10 by New Westminster Wednesday in Victoria, are still six points behind third-place Nanaimo,

Eves Second

Jerome Sets Track Mark

VANCOUVER (CP)—Harry Jerome, 19-year-old North Vancouver speedster, cracked the Canadian open and native 200-metre record Thursday night in the annual Vancouver police track and field championships.

Jerome, hustling his way to an almost certain spot on Canada's Olympic team, covered the distance in 20.9 seconds, three-tenths of a second better than the open mark set by Mike Agostini of Trinidad here July 2, 1956, and half a second faster than a mark established Sept. 28, 1908, by Bobbie Kerr of Hamilton, Ont.

Kerr later went on to win the 200-metre Olympic title. Lynn Eves, 18-year-old Victoria sprinter, chased Jerome to his record and was second in 21.7 seconds. Ray Copeland of Fort Lewis, Wash., was third in 22 flat. Jerome's time was three-tenths of a second off the world record for the distance on a curved track, that record is shared by Ray Norton and Andy Stanfield of the U.S. The police games, which continue today, also are billed as the B.C. championships and Olympic trials. Don Trethewey, 23, of Kamloops, B.C., cracked the Canadian Open Steeplechase mark, with a time of 9:44.4, well under his 9:21.9 time in the recent U.S. small college championships. However, it was 19.5 seconds faster than the 10:26 record of H. St. C. Davidson of Listowel, Ont. set July 16, 1932.

GIANT MOUNTIE

Fred Sontag, giant six-six-260-pound RCMP constable from Williams Lake, B.C., equalled the Canadian national record of 196 feet, six inches set by Roy Pella in the British Empire Games here in 1954. Sontag, 27, arrived minutes before the event was completed and could get in only three of the six throws allowed. Sally McCallum of Vernon, B.C., equalled the B.C. women's 200-metre mark, winning the event in 25.2. Kathy Chubb of Vancouver was second in 25.4.

DOUBLE WINNER

Paul Winn of North Vancouver was the only double winner, taking the men's open, step and jump with a mark of 46 feet, 9 1/2 inches and the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet, 2 1/2 inches. Paul Hendon, Vancouver, won the 10,000 metres in 30:58.4. Don Steen, Vancouver, the men's javelin with a toss of 195 feet, 11 inches, and Jon Versteeg, Vancouver, the hammer toss with a mark of 148 feet, 10 inches. On the distaff side, Valeria Jerome of North Vancouver won the broad jump with a mark of 17 feet, 9 1/2 inches; Wendy Kelland, the javelin with a toss of 112 feet, five inches, and Lydia Terry of Vancouver, the discus with a mark of 138 feet, six inches.

Tries For Win, Breaks Ankle At Home Plate

Gorge Hotel and Mayo Lumber battled through 10 innings to a 3-3 tie in the opening game of the double knockout softball tournament at Central Park last night and will try again today at 12 noon.

Gorge scored all its runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, and appeared to have the game won in the eighth. Instead, they lost Joe Patterson with a broken ankle. Patterson was on third base, George Wilcox hit a short fly ball to left field, and broke the ankle sliding into the plate with what would have been the winning run.

Winner of today's replay plays Farmers at 2 p.m., and the two losers play at 6:45. Winners of the afternoon game play Seattle Saturday at 2 p.m., and the Seattle club meets the winner of tonight's game Saturday at 6:45. Tournament winds up Sunday.

Seattle Team Enters Babe Ruth Tourney

Victoria Babe Ruth League all-stars will play two exhibition minor league games against a Seattle club this weekend. All-stars meet the Seattle Babe Ruth team at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at Reynolds Road Park and again Sunday at 2 p.m. at Beacon Hill Park.

which has a game in hand and has the advantage of home floor against Vancouver tomorrow night. Vics play Nanaimo twice next week. Vics add to their troubles. Vics learned that Jim McNeill has suffered a broken toe. He missed last night's game and will be out of action for about a month according to trainer Dusty Mair. Also out of action last night were Whitey Severson, out with a broken bone in his left wrist, and Ed Kowalyk and Ross Roskamp, both unable to make the game. New Westminster lost no time in working on its eighth victory in nine games against Victoria this season. Taking advantage of a defence that gave rookie goalie Fred Wooster little protection, the champions scored five goals in the first eight minutes, led 6-2 at the quarter, and fired four more unanswered goals in the second quarter to make it 10-2.

JOHNSTON RETURNS

Geordie Johnston took over in goal for Vics in the second half and was a standout as they began to chop away at the lead. Down 14-5 with three minutes gone in the fourth quarter, Vics scored four straight goals, gave up one to Jack Barclay, and added two more in the final minute. Vics got four of their first five goals on the power play and finished with a total of five scored with the man advantage. New Westminster scored twice with the odd man and once while short-handed. Jackie Northup, the all-time league goal-scoring king, turned in a fine individual effort last night and led Vics with three goals and an assist. Stu Smith had two goals and an assist, and Vics also got help from Billy Gray, a member of Junior Shamrocks who

Pages and Studs Battle for First

Cheney Studs, the pre-season favorites, will attempt to knock Victoria Pages from the top of the Northwest International Baseball League standings in a three-game series which opens at Royal Athletic Park at 7:30 this evening. Pages, who have surprised with their exceptionally fine play, upset the Studs twice, 1-0 and 4-3, in two games several weeks back, and the Washington club will be back with its strongest possible lineup. Studs have added several Defending champion Maria Bueno of Brazil, defeated Australia's Rod Laver and Bob Mark. Scores were 4-6, 10-8, 15-13, 4-6, 11-9 after a sparkling centre court duel that lasted more than three hours.

WINNIPEG BLUE BOMBERS

BOMBERS, who gave up two players and cash to get halfback Don Clark from Ottawa Rough Riders this year, yesterday shipped him to Montreal Alouettes when the former Ohio State star demanded a no-out contract. In exchange they got Sid Williams of Wisconsin, a quarterback and a defensive halfback. Bombers have also signed fullback Dave "Rock" Kuris of Purdue and fullback Neil MacLean of Wake Forest. Former Cleveland Browns' quarterback Bob Placek checked in to Regina yesterday to play for the Roughriders. Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League have signed outfielder Walter Bond on option from Cleveland Indians, and brought back ex-Mountie outfielder Al Barth, this time as a pitcher, from Appleton of the Three I League. Former cafe operator Harold Friedman has been convicted in Philadelphia of offering Phillies' pitcher Humberto Robinson $1,500 to throw a game last year.

BERNIE COOK, president of the Western International Hockey League, announced yesterday that Spokane Jets had concluded negotiations with the management of Spokane Coliseum for ice time and would return to the league next season. However in Spokane it was understood that the professional Spokane Comets plan to fight to the end for exclusive rights to the Coliseum. The reign of the Canadian Trotting Association, Canada's governing body of

Major Leaguers Hit-Happy

Four American League games produced 47 runs on 74 hits, 16 of them home runs. There were only nine home runs in the four National League games but 22 pitchers were cracked for 99 hits which produced 60 runs.

Dick Stuart, batting in the vicinity of 240 and sharing first-base duties with Rocky Nelson for Pittsburgh Pirates, was the most spectacular of yesterday's hitting stars. He crashed out three home runs—his ninth, 10th and 11th—in successive times at bat, later added a two-run single for a total of seven runs batted in. It was enough to carry the Pirates to an 11-6 win over San Francisco. Giants in the second game of a double-header.

The Giants, who won the first one, 11-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Jack Sanford, had a hot hitter of their own—Willie Mays. He had two home runs and four other hits in seven trips to the plate and batted in five runs in the two games. MISS CHANCE Milwaukee's second-place Braves missed the chance as Chicago Cubs came up with an 18-hit attack, which saw Ernie Banks, Frank Thomas and Richie Ashburn each drive in three runs in an 11-5 romp. Maury Wills and Charlie Neal each drove in three runs as Los Angeles Dodgers, tying the St. Louis Cardinals for fourth place, moved into the first division for the first time since May 7. They beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 10-6. New York Yankees, well on the way to a new American League home run record, turned on the power again in a 10-3 thumping of Kansas City Athletics which gave them their 18th win in the last 22 games.

MARIS AGAIN Roger Maris, who will break Babe Ruth's record if he can continue his present pace, got his 25th of the season and his 14th in June. Bill Skowron hit harness racing, is apparently over, losing out in a struggle for power to the Ontario Racing Commission, which takes over the 53-day meet at Woodbine this week. ERNE ABRICTION, 250-pound lineman from Mississippi College, and Roy Jakanvich, formerly with UBC Thunderbirds, have signed with Toronto Argonauts. The 3,500-mile international yacht race from Bermuda to Sweden started yesterday with 17 yachts entered representing the United States, Britain, Germany and Sweden.

JIM PIERSALL, colorful center fielder for Cleveland Indians who took a week's rest on doctor's orders, will rejoin the American League club next Monday against Kansas City. The Soviet Union will enter a team of 303 men and women in the Olympic Games this summer in Rome.

Well worth a visit this summer is St. Mary Lake on Salt Spring Island where anglers may catch both cut-throat trout and small-mouthed bass... and both species weigh heavy in the five-mile-long 600-acre lake.

Until a couple of years ago fishermen from Vancouver Island had to make a rush trip between ferries to fish the lake, or be lucky enough to get one of the limited number of cabins at the lake.

Things have changed now. Salt Spring Island is keeping abreast of the times and now has ample accommodation for tenters... most of it around St. Mary Lake.

Roy and Blanche Kilborn of the Circle K Park have introduced a new-type shelter for campers to use when it rains, or is windy. They operate from the far tip of the lake and have excellent camping grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Ryan have a combination cottage and tenting resort beside the lake on the main road to Fernwood.

Monty Blackburne of St. Mary Lake Fishing Resort has no tenting accommodation, but he does have several attractive cabins, one of them within a couple of steps of the lake. Just a few hundred yards further along the road towards Ganges is The Cottage Auto Court, which also has cabins and boats, but no tenting.

Warwick and Elina Evans are right in the middle of hewing their Cedar Beach Camp out of almost wilderness lakeshore. They have an ambitious program planned, which includes a large boat livery. They are ready for campers and trailers now.

On the far shore of the lake Fred and Ruth McCutcheon have the Lakeshore Fishing Camp which features the secluded type of camping.

All the resorts on St. Mary Lake are official colonist King Fisherman weigh-in stations and in past years have weighed in some of the crest and prize-winning trout and bass.

Trout fishing in the lake is off for the summer months, but bass fishing at the moment is good. It would be impossible to advise where is the best spot for bass because each resort owner says it is right in front of his place, which would indicate the bass are all over the lake.

We fished the far side where there is no development and had good luck.

The lake bottom is covered with healthy looking weed which provides good cover and feed for the fish. The shore drops off fairly steeply and just at the drop off we saw school after school of bass, mostly small ones in the nine to 10-inch class.

During the daytime they were mainly interested in worm dangle fishing from a bobber and fished fairly close to the bottom, but we did get some on jitterbugs, Hawaiian Wiggles and Sonic plugs. In the evening they hit at practically anything but were very difficult to hold.

There are at least 12 lakes on Salt Spring Island and most of them provide good trout fishing. The Salt Spring Island Fish and Game Club has provided wharf and small boat launching facilities at St. Mary Lake, Weston Lake, Stowell Lake and Cusheon Lake, which are the favorite fishing lakes on the island. Weston and Stowell are on the Fulford-Beaver Point Road.

Other lakes include Maxwell Lake, which is the water supply for the island and not now a productive fishing lake; Bullocks, Stevens and Roberts, which are private lake; Ford and Blackburne Lakes, where there is good evening fishing on the fly; Mitchell Lake and Allan Lake.

Best idea for a Salt Spring Island lake fishing holiday would be to use St. Mary Lake as a base and then visit the other lakes.

Okay Given Pro Shop Operations

VANCOUVER (CP) — The selling of sports equipment after normal closing hours will continue here at pro shops of golf and tennis clubs.

City council has decided not to disturb the operation of pro shops. The decision followed a complaint about the sale of sports equipment on Sundays and in the evenings.

Council was told that pro shops in the private clubs are governed by the clubs themselves. The public is not allowed.

Although aldermen voted to allow the night operations, they were told they had no power to legislate on Sunday operation.

Three-Wicket Win For Gloucestershire

BRISTOL, England (Reuters)—Gloucestershire County Thursday dismissed the touring South African cricket team for 49 runs for a three-wicket victory over the tourists with nearly a 1½ days' play to spare.

Denis O'Court, a newcomer to the Gloucestershire side, took six wickets for 25 runs in helping rout the South Africans, and Neil Adcock took four for 31 when Gloucestershire batted.

Final scores: South Africa 116 and 49; Gloucestershire 81 and 87 for seven.

Other close-of-day scores: At Guildford: Oxford University 245 for 4 declared; Warwickshire 10 and 34 for 1. At Liverpool: Hampshire 181 and 96. At Nottingham: Leicestershire 205 for 4 declared; Nottinghamshire 229 for 8. At Derby: Essex 275 and 75 for 2. Derbyshire 248 for 4 declared. At Northampton: Yorkshire 277 for 4 declared and 68 for no wicket; Northamptonshire 238 for 4 declared. At Southbridge: Glamorgan 238 and 111; Worcestershire 238 for 4 declared.

Whole Family Big Threat

Seattle Storeys PNGA Story

By JIM TANG

Annual Pacific Northwest Golf Association tournament will be played here next week, and the best story could be a Seattle Storey.

Entered, as he is almost every year, is Ken Storey, Sr., who won the PNGA championship at the Spokane Country Club away back in 1934 and 26 years later has to be rated as a solid title threat.

The 49-year-old Seattle veteran is still good enough to play to a scratch handicap but the family chances aren't in his hands alone. With him he will have Ken Storey, Jr., and Tom Storey, a couple of youngsters who aren't having too much trouble following in their Dad's falcon footsteps. Ken, Jr., 20, has won the Seattle caddie championship and two years ago was the Seattle junior champion. Tom, 18, is the Seattle high school champion, winning the 36-hole tournament with a 65-76-141, and only recently won the Wellington Hills Invitational at Seattle with a sparkling 66.

The youngsters, both playing to a four handicap, took up golf only about five years ago and have made remarkable progress. The elder Storey rates both a chance to join him as a PNGA champion.

EXCELLENT PUTTER

Ken, Jr., is, he said, an excellent putter while Tom needs only to acquire a bit more consistency to rate with the best in the Northwest. His 66 and 65 in the Seattle tournaments prove he can score with the best. Tom is currently playing in the B.C. Open in Vancouver and will play with the first-round leaders with a 69 but fell off the pace yesterday with a 79.

But the Storeys will have plenty of opposition when the field of 144 tees off Monday morning at the Victoria Golf Club in the first of the two qualifying rounds which will determine the 32 who will start match play for the title on Wednesday.

Included in the field are 19 entrants with handicaps of two or less, among them defending champion Ron Wiley of Vancouver and Seattle's George Holland, the 1958 champion.

Scratch golfers in addition to the elder Storey and Wiley are Dick Price and Hal Jacobson of Longview, Wash. Erv Parent of Seattle and Robert C. Smith of Milwaukie, Ore. Gerry Cundari and Harold Weston of Portland, Walt McAlpine of New Westminster and Dick Williams of Seattle, all have one handicap.

Included among the nine entrants playing to a two handicap are Laurie Kerr, Bill Wakeham and Bob Morrison of Victoria. Others are Hal Duden, Pat Cline and Ray Morgan of Portland's Holl'nd and Robert L. Smith of Seattle and Dennis Queden of Bremerton.

STRONG FIELD

Although it doesn't include several of the better Vancouver golfers the field is a strong one and any of the 32 qualifiers will rate a good chance of coming up with the combination of stamina and skill needed to come out on top.

Stamina is bound to play an important part with the two finalists being called on to play nine holes in six days. After the 36 qualifying holes, match play start Wednesday with the first round. The field will be cut to the semi-finalists with two rounds on Thursday. Both the semi-finals, on Friday, and the Saturday final will be over 36 holes.

Reg. Wilde, in charge of the tournament, said he was well pleased with the men's entry.

TOO FEW LADIES

"It's just what we had hoped," he said last night, "but we are a bit disappointed in the ladies' entry."

Only 75 entries have been received for the ladies' championship, which will be played at the Uplands Golf Club.

"We would like to have at least 80," Mr. Wilde said, "and will take at least five more late entries."

They can be made by mail to Mr. Wilde at 1039 Beach Drive or by telephone — to EV 3-3994.

More than numbers are involved in the disappointment over the ladies' entry. Because the last three trial tests for the B.C. ladies inter-provincial team coincide with the PNGA tournament, the field doesn't include most of the province's better distaff golfers. And Mrs. Dorothy DeGirolamo, who has already earned her place on the B.C. team by winning the B.C. Close, has chosen to pass up the PNGA.

Garden Notes

Turning Point in Plot

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Dominion Day marks an important turning point in the gardener's year, and I would like to remind my readers once again that no asparagus should be cut and no rhubarb stalks pulled from now until next spring. Both plants will be needing all their foliage from here on in to plump up their roots for next year's cropping.

Once the asparagus "fern" appears, you may have to defend your plants from the pillaging of the flower arrangers in your family, for the delicate, lacy foliage makes wonderful greenery for mixing with sweet peas and other blooms in bouquets and arrangements. A few little snippets from here and there wouldn't do much harm, but any serious cutting of the fern would have a profound effect upon the quality and quantity of next year's crop.

Asparagus is such a pretty plant while in leaf that I've often thought it would make an excellent screen or division between the vegetable plot and the backyard lawn, for the tall fern provides a most ornamental "hedge" through July and August.

Next time you lift and remake the asparagus bed, it wouldn't be a bad idea to save a few of the smaller roots to plant in the back row of the perennial flower bed, both for their ornamental effect and to provide mixing material for use with cut flowers. Don't let anybody talk you into giving your asparagus bed a dressing of common salt. This was a fairly common practice in the old days and it is true that you get quite a nice spurt of growth following an application of salt, but the effect is only temporary and you can do a lot of damage. It isn't too serious on light sandy ground, but the heavier types of soil can be ruined through the use of salt.

The action of salt is to separate the calcium and potassium from the colloidal matter in the soil. This colloidal matter is rather like a very thin film of jelly surrounding each tiny particle of soil and is the basis of all the potential fertility of the soil. If you lose this film, you have just plain dirt instead of living soil and it may be years before the asparagus bed comes back to full production.

If the beds are very weedy, you have a unique opportunity to clean them up now. Make one last cutting of asparagus, taking every single stalk so that no asparagus growth remains above ground, then spray the weeds lightly with a 2-4-D weed-killer. If grass is growing in the beds, add a little TCA Couch Grass Killer to the spray mixture. Remember, the only safe time to apply this spray is after all the spears are cut below soil level and before any fern appears. With no asparagus top-growth to absorb the spray, it cannot be translocated to the roots.

As soon as the fern appears, it is a good idea to give it a little boost by applying fertilizer. I prefer one of the quick-acting "instant" kinds dissolved in water, one tablespoonful to the gallon and about one gallon per square yard of bed.

The rhubarb, too, will appreciate a feed at the end of the cropping season and, for this plant, there is no better material than old-fashioned rotted manure, spread thickly over the root run, plus plenty of water. If you have any of the heavy soil left over from the asparagus treatment, though, you might wet down the rhubarb leaves with it, as this plant enjoys being fed from both ends.

The Viewing World

of John Crosby

Powerful Triumvirate of TV

Television today is suffering from the same malady that afflicts the rest of the country—bigness. Today three networks control what 180,000,000 people are going to look at. Even if the program heads who wield this vast power were all high-minded, this would be a narrow bottleneck through which to pour all the creative energy of the country. But they're not high-minded men.

I was talking to a showman the other day who said: "Well, the same thing that happened to the automobile industry has happened to television. You've got three giants. It's more efficient that way." But what is good for the auto industry is not at all good for so personal a medium of communication and information and education and entertainment as television. What has been lost is human scale.

With four large studios turning out 85 per cent of the nation's shows and selling them in private little deals to three huge networks, the little independent producer is being driven to the wall. If this were just another example of the big chain store driving the corner grocery store out of business, I shouldn't object so much.

But it's the little independents who have fostered much of the creative end of television, who had the imagination and who are the last repository of some human values in this business. Creative people are being driven out of the business altogether in favor of cost accountants.

The agencies and all of Madison Avenue are choked with fine programs which could easily get sponsors or which have attracted sponsors but can't get on the air. Take a program like "Band of Gold." It's an anthology on marriage with the same cast—a kind of stock company—doing different stories each week. It's been sold four times to big sponsors; the networks won't let it on.

Since the quiz scandals, the networks have been told by Oren Harris to take charge of (and responsibility for) their programming. This carte blanche—which should be a good thing—is becoming a license to steal.

When an independent producer brings a show to a network, the network's first query is: What's my cut? The going rate is 30 per cent. If the producer doesn't cut the network in for that much he's not likely to get air time.

In the past threats of anti-trust action scared the networks away from this sort of practice. Now the network position is that Oren Harris has given them a green light to run their own show. This would be fine if the networks were running their own show the way they once did—the way CBS developed Studio One and NBC developed Today and Matinee Theatre. Here the networks not only took the risk and did the thinking, but also they were doing fine creative programs, a credit to the industry and to the country.

Even when Hollywood was dominated by eight giant picture companies, the situation as far as courageous honest creative work went was bad enough. But at least there were eight outfits. Today there are only three.

Marilyn's Not THAT Old

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Spanish painter Alejo Vidal-Cuadras is making a series of sketches of Marilyn Monroe and Yves Montand for Vogue's Paris edition. When the painter told Marilyn he considers her an 18th-century type of beauty, she replied: "But I'm only 34, and please do me the way I am."

"There Was a Little Girl" was a fast flop on Broadway. But both stars came out in fine shape. Jane Fonda was much in demand for films and plays, and Dean Stockwell has been asked to join Tony Curtis in Universal-International's movie of Iwo Jima hero Ira Hayes, "The Sixth Man." Dino De Laurentis is also after Dean for "Love on the North Sea," with Stockwell and Earl Holliman to play the sons of Ernie Borgnine. "And Lucille Ball wants to hear me sing," Dean adds, "for her Broadway musical, 'Wildcat'."

Elena Eden, Israeli star of 20th's "Story of Ruth," goes to Rome for the lead in Sam Engel's next biggie, "The King Must Die." The 20-year-old Elena covered 20 cities in 30 days to publicize "Ruth." It's rugged when you are establishing yourself as a star. Not too big a salary, and lots of hard work.

Chatted with the Sir Anthony Nutting, British minister of state during the Churchill regime, and now political adviser to Sam Spiegel for his "Lawrence of Arabia" film production. Marlon Brando is the likeliest candidate for Lawrence. "Any women in the cast?" I asked Mr. Nutting. "No," he replied, adding, "what greater romance can there be than the love of millions of men for one man." Lawrence was killed in a motorbike accident in 1935. He died unhappy because he felt that his promise to the Arabs had been broken.

And veteran comic Billy Gilbert at a drugstore on the Strip said: "I've got no worries. I saved my money years ago and invested it well. I've lived in New York for years, and now I'm doing 'Of Thee I Sing' at the Pasadena Playhouse."

Brigitte Bardot will sue unless that German optical company removes the spectacles superimposed on her pretty face in its ads.

Vivien Leigh, who saw Sir Laurence Olivier in London last week, will not abandon hope of a reconciliation, until he actually marries Joan Plowright.

I remember when Vivien and Larry eloped during her filming of "Gone with the Wind" in the late 30s.

Ringside of the World

All-Out Nuclear War Impossible

By FIELD MARSHAL
VISCOUNT MONTGOMERY

(11th of a Series)

During the years which followed the ending of Hitler's war in 1945 the world became split in twain by two conflicting ideological doctrines or moral codes: There is the Eastern bloc led by Russia, and the Western bloc led by the United States.

At one time, say between 1947 and 1952, it was thought by many that the conflict between East and West might lead to war. The formation of NATO and the splendid work achieved by that organization, together with the advent of a new key to military strategy—the nuclear deterrent—have practically ruled out the possibility of the Eastern bloc resorting to war to achieve its aims and objects.

The Western bloc also will never initiate war—its re-arming during the past years has been purely for defensive reasons and it will never attack the Eastern bloc except in self-defence—and, of course, it will never launch what is called "preventive war."

'Pearl Harbor Complex' Biggest Obstacle to Peace

I have had a ringside seat at the game of international high politics ever since the end of Hitler's war in 1945. I know the heads of state and the political leaders of all the nations of the free world. I have met and talked with the leaders of the Eastern bloc—notably Stalin, Khrushchev, Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai. Against the background of this experience I am convinced that what I have written above is correct—the possibility of either bloc, East or West, resorting to all-out nuclear war can be discarded.

If only this basic truth could be accepted by the nations of the Western bloc, the way ahead would be all the easier to organize. Furthermore, the possibility of drifting into war by miscalculation or accident would be greatly reduced. Agreement on this basic truth surprise nuclear attack against her if a suitable opportunity arises: it is impossible to persuade her to think otherwise. For this reason she keeps a certain percentage of her strategic air forces always in the air, armed with nuclear bombs, ready to strike back at Russia.

This state of nerves is noted in Russia, which considers that the United States keeps her air forces in the air in order to strike at Russia and launch a preventive war. This action by the leader of the Western Alliance is not without its effect on the smaller nations in the alliance—but luckily has no influence on our British.

This dangerous situation has certain repercussions. The two blocs, East and West, maintain a military occupation of Europe—with their armed forces facing each other across the Iron Curtain. Russia and China are close allies in the Eastern bloc. Nationalist China (Formosa) is accepted as a member of the United Nations while the People's Republic of China (Peking) is not; the more the West deals with Formosa, the more the Peking government looks to Russia.

Route to Alaska?

B.C. Highways Minister wouldn't comment on the P. A. Gaglardi will support a likely route for the B.C. sec. U.S. bid for a California-Alaska coast highway, but he will offer a plan for such a highway here on July 10 when officials from B.C., the Yukon and Alaska meet to discuss transport facilities.

From several points along the Northern Trans-Provincial highway there is feasible northward access to Alaska, but no single route north has ever been officially approved.

Show Business

By Dick Williams

Duke Ellington's cool splotch is legendary in the band business. This quality was never better proven than last summer when Duke played at the outdoor Stonybrook, Long Island, music festival.

During the band's rendition of "Such Sweet Thunder," a plane flew so low overhead that it could not be ignored. Duke acknowledged the plane's presence by leading his musicians in cadence with the sound of the engine.

After appreciative applause, emcee Norman Brokenshire asked admiringly: "How did you arrange for that plane to fly over at just the right moment?"

"We didn't," explained the Duke. "We consider ourselves artists and employ the materials at hand!"

Teenage Addiction Rising, Almost All in B.C.—Jung

OTTAWA (CP)—Teenage narcotics addiction seems to be increasing in Canada, Douglas Jung (PC-Vancouver Centre) said yesterday.

British Columbia has the "dubious distinction" of having 46 of the 55 teenager addicts reported in 1959—a total that compares with only 25 in 1957, Mr. Jung told the Commons.

Mr. Jung raised the matter as the Commons embarked on study of the justice department's $26,000,000 budget for the current year.

Mr. Jung said drug addiction can cost Vancouver nearly $135,000 a day through thefts by addicts seeking money to buy heroin.

'Imagine a Sailor in Underwear!'

'What's Going On Around Here?'

Brunch? Well, I Never!... On a Naval Ship!

By JAMES K. NESBITT

A long, nostalgic sigh for "the good old days" of the Canadian Navy, before the 1939-45 war, was heaved by Lieut. Edward A. MacFayden, R.C.N., when he spoke to Victoria section, B.C. Historical Association.

Lieut. MacFayden, retired curator of Maritime Museum at Esquimalt, brought the

Commodore into Victoria harbor during B.C. centennial celebrations two summers ago. "In the good old days we had one quart of drinking water per day, per man—perhaps!" he said. "It had to do for our tea, too—and we found cold tea excellent for shaving."

Lieut. MacFayden, who went to sea at 14, in the merchant navy, said there's only one way in which to sleep aboard a naval vessel—in a hammock, in the altogether.

"Today they have pyjamas—beautiful pyjamas—and they have underwear, too. Imagine a sailor in underwear! Why, it was unknown in the good old days—we pulled our pants up over our bare skin."

Today's sailors sleep on foam rubber mattresses, in bunks and beds, and they have pillows: "Imagine a pillow in the navy—I couldn't sleep on one of those foam rubber things—there's nothing like a hammock, the deck, or a board."

In the good old days, he said, Canadian sailors of 30 years ago had to get up at 5.30 a.m.—and they were awakened by a tough, rough, roaring voice

—and they had to be on their feet in one minute—or else!

"Today," he said, "they're awakened by a soft pleasant voice at 7."

He told of his shock, on a naval vessel not long ago, at 11 a.m.; when he heard the call: "All hands to brunch."

"What's going on around here?" he asked, and was informed that on certain days in port, nearly everyone sleeps in, and combines breakfast and lunch at 11 a.m.

"What is this anyway?" he asked. "A swank hotel?—in my day it was up spirits at 11; now they've upped the allowance to 10 cents if you don't take grog—not that there's anything wrong with being temperance, even in the navy. But brunch—well, I never!"

on a naval ship!" Sailors before the war darned their own socks, washed their clothes in salt water. "Wonder how many sailors today could do those chores?"

Dr. F. M. Lane presided at the meeting. Lieut. MacFayden was thanked by Miss Kathleen Agnew. Peter Richards showed colored slides of recent historic events in Victoria.

Foul Bay Road Scheme Faces Further Study

Capital Improvement District Commission reached no conclusion yesterday on the proposal of Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay that a grant be provided for widening and improving Foul Bay Road from Fort to the University. It meets again July 5 to continue discussion of this and other possible projects.

One-Fifth Drop

Construction In Slump

Greater Victoria construction slumped 21 per cent from last year's level in dollar-value in the first six months of 1960.

Building permits were issued in the four municipalities in the first six months of this year for construction valued at $9,113,565; in the first six months of last year, for construction valued at $11,587,321.

CITY ALL ALONE

Victoria city alone finished June with a total above last year's. Saanich construction was at about 65 per cent of the 1959 level, Oak Bay and Esquimalt at about 50 per cent.

Even the city's margin was dwindling.

MARGIN NARROWS

At the end of May, Victoria was $730,000 ahead of last year. But in June, it issued permits for construction valued at $460,443, compared with $866,756 in June, 1959, bringing this year's six-month total to $4,496,110 as against last year's $4,172,673. Number of permits in six months was down from 3,255 to 3,176.

SAANICH PERMITS

Saanich issued permits in June for building worth $509,250, including 30 dwellings at $367,500, bringing its six-month totals to 425 permits for $3,465,770, including 195 dwellings at $2,355,600.

The previous June, the total of $1,084,825 included 62 dwellings at $724,300, and the six-month totals were 615 permits for $4,952,539, including 363 dwellings at $4,191,010.

OAK BAY ISSUES

Oak Bay issued permits for construction totalling $160,426 in June, including five houses at $101,000, compared with $328,745 the previous June, including 12 houses at $205,050.

Six-month totals this year were 164 permits for $750,675, including 29 houses at $517,500, and last year, 217 permits for $1,540,820, including 44 dwellings at $769,050.

ESQUIMALT VALUES

Esquimalt permit value in June was $58,160, including three dwellings at $54,200, compared with $154,399 the previous June, including 10 dwellings at $138,000.

Six-month totals this year were 77 permits and $451,010; last year, 122 permits and $921,289.

Program Set At Gardens

Program for the first of three summer concerts July 7 in the Butchart Gardens was announced yesterday.

Victoria Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Hans Gruber, will perform the Haydn Symphony No. 97 in C Major. On the lighter side, there is a South Pacific suite by Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Featured artist, baritone Cornelius Ophoff of Toronto, will sing selections from Show Boat, Porgy and Bess and the opera Il Trovatore.

It was also the driest June, with only .27-inch of rainfall, since 1951 when only .05-inch was recorded. Normal rainfall for the month of June is .91-inch. So far this year there have been 12.18 inches of rainfall.

Maximum temperature of 73.8 degrees was recorded on June 2 and minimum of 47.3 on June 19. Normal maximum is 64.9 and normal minimum 50.

Stephen Tells Businessmen:

Regard Downtown As 'Place of Trust'

Retires After 41 Years

That's it for today—and for 41 years for George F. Burnell, 1881 Hampshire. He retired yesterday from Oak Bay High School after taking care of schools in the municipality since 1919. School board chairman W. C. Gelling paid tribute to him as "great personality" and cited his contribution to school system.—(Colonist photo.)

166 Off to Europe

Parents Bid Bon Voyage

An excited group of 166 Lady at the Drury Lane in London.

They will visit battlefields in France and during a visit to Montmartre each student will be sketched by an artist who specializes in making rapid profiles of visitors.

The students will make a complete written and picture record of their trip. Written reports, sketches and photographs will be put into a year book. Movies will be edited into a travelogue.

The group returns to Victoria Aug. 20.

Driest in Nine

Windiest June In Three Years

The past month was the windiest June since 1957. With an average wind speed of 13.4 miles an hour, it was nearly as windy as 1957 which had an averaged of 14.1 miles an hour.

It was also the driest June, with only .27-inch of rainfall, since 1951 when only .05-inch was recorded. Normal rainfall for the month of June is .91-inch. So far this year there have been 12.18 inches of rainfall.

Maximum temperature of 73.8 degrees was recorded on June 2 and minimum of 47.3 on June 19. Normal maximum is 64.9 and normal minimum 50.

Life-Death Struggle Seen in Core

Businessmen must regard downtown Victoria less as a place to make a quick dollar and more as a trust, which they administer, Hugh Stephen, a former President of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said last night.

"The ultimate salvation of our city centre rests less upon the intelligent use of bricks and mortar than it does upon a basic shift in the philosophy of those who occupy it and earn their livelihood within its precincts," he told members of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club at their regular dinner meeting.

"I think it impossible to disguise the results of last Thursday's vote (on the downtown mall plan) as anything but deep and unmitigated tragedy, not only for the merchants, but, in the final event, for every resident of Greater Victoria."

Stressing that he does not oppose the Hillside development, Mr. Stephen said the proposed area is about the same as the present downtown shopping district and he felt the community could not support both.

FAILED TO LIVE UP

Pointing to far-sighted improvements to Victoria in its early days — construction of the Causeway; widening of Douglas, Pandora and Hillside; construction of the Johnson Street bridge and extension of Johnson Street, itself, through solid rock — Mr. Stephen charged Victoria residents have failed to live up to the examples of their ancestors.

Wicks Hails Pulp Pact

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks last night expressed pleasure at a settlement reached in working-agreement negotiations in B.C.'s pulp industry.

The settlement, he said, had been overwhelmingly approved by pulp and sulphite workers, and "I want to congratulate all concerned on a fine job and express pleasure at the continued harmony in the industry."

Opera Group Elects Cooke

Ron Cooke was elected president at a recent meeting of the Victoria branch of the Gilbert and Sullivan Society.

Other officials elected: Jim Robins, vice-president; Jean Langton, secretary; John Cox, treasurer; Ivan Howell, business director; Fred Cox, program director; and Jen Rough, social director.

Shopping, Civic Centres for Saanich

old municipal yard site, lower, where a large, integrated shopping centre will be built, and north of it the site overlooking Swan Lake where the municipality will build a $1,000,000 civic centre.

Beaches, Parks Lure Hundreds to Highways

Vancouver Island highways were busy tourist thoroughfares last night as city dwellers in cars carrying tents and boats got an early start on the long, holiday weekend.

The travellers today can take in any number of special events being held around the Island from Sidney to Port Alberni.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Traffic was heavier than normal through Nanaimo last night, said RCMP, and a "considerable number" of cars carrying camping gear passed through Sidney, said a B.C. government ferry service official.

Sidney's celebrations will start at 11.30 a.m. with a parade from Queens and Fifth to War Memorial Park where the following events are scheduled:

QUEEN-CROWNING

A queen-crowning ceremony at noon followed by displays of a drill team, band and drum corps, a folk festival at 1 p.m. followed by dog obedience trials and pre-school children's sports, a pipe band performance at 2.30 p.m., and another folk festival at 3 p.m. followed by juvenile baseball games.

At Saanich Hall in the park an autorama will be held in the afternoon and a Beachcombers' Ball from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Around the Island, Port Al

berni will hold a centennial dances, loggers' sports and parade at 11.30 a.m., the Nanaimo Outboard Club will hold a horse show. Also at a regatta on Westwood Lake, Duncan, East Indians will at Campbell River will have a tend the opening of a Palet celebration including Indian temple.

North Saanich

Marauding Crows In Gunsights Soon

Steps will be taken to eliminate a surplus population of the pesky birds.

RCMP Corporal William Stanton said last night it was all right for residents to shoot crows providing they asked permission. North Saanich is not a closed area.

In recent weeks many residents complained of marauding crows. Callers asked RCMP whether it was legal to shoot the pesky birds.

Gordon Bennett smiling while Ab Wells explained expert golfing ... Don Bourne digging into a hillside ... forest ranger Ron Jones hoping woods travellers will be careful with fire this weekend.

Wind Slams Car Door, Mangles Child's Fingers

Three-year-old Victoria Ann McMillan, 535 Sumas, whose fingers were mangled when a car door closed on her hand at 4.55 p.m. yesterday, was later reported in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

She was playing around an old car down the street when a gust of wind caught the door and slammed it shut, police were told.

Bride Wears Blue

Two baskets of mixed white flowers either side of the altar decorated Centennial United Church last evening for the wedding of Ruth Helen Erindson, daughter of Mrs. Sommerfield, of Radville, Sask., to Mr. Donald J. Shostopalski, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Shes, of Camrose, Alta.

Rev. S. J. Parsons officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. D. Arnatt sang "Because." The bride came down the aisle on the arm of Mr. Maurice Jacques. Her full skirted gown of pale blue lace over taffeta was ballerina length. She wore white accessories.

A shoulder length veil was held by a band of white flowers. She carried a white orchid placed on a Bible, with trailing stephanotis.

Mrs. Lue Jacques, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her gown was pink nylon sheer over pink taffeta, accessories were white. Pink and white carnations formed her colonial bouquet.

Mr. Dennis Litchfield was best man with Mr. Raymond Erindson and Mr. John Pleski, acting as ushers.

A reception was held at the home of the bride, 1023 Queen's Avenue.

For her going away outfit the new Mrs. Shostopalski chose a dress of white nylon sheer decorated with red roses, over taffeta, white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The newlyweds will live at 1030 Costin Avenue after their honeymoon on the mainland.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By HELEN B. HEWSON

He was a young father of a young family, the eldest a seven-year-old. He was on a business trip that would take him across Canada and away from his home for three weeks, and he was worried.

It wasn't business, or trying to fit appointments into travel schedules that worried him, it was that last evening at home.

The seven-year-old had brought home his Grade 2 report card. Father read it and "blew his top."

"I really let him have it," he recollected. "Told him what I thought about that 'lack of application,' could do better—writing careless—C in number work!"

"He didn't say a word, just stood there dazed, and then went off to his room. As soon as I had said my piece I wanted to take it all back.

"The poor kid, he's growing like a weed, his co-ordination is terrible just now, of course his writing will be sloppy.

"Two or three times he asked me to help him with his arithmetic, but I was too busy, or thought I was. If I am not interested in helping him now how can I give him the works for that 'lack of application'?"

"Why can't I think before I speak? I have to do it in business. Why am I so critical, so unreasonable, with my own children?"

Why? It's a big question. Adults are on occasion, just as unreasonable, wilful and difficult as the children they seek to guide. And this behavior is prompted by such good intentions, to help others!

We may be calm, collected, objective in our business or community work and let our feelings run away with us in the family circle.

Family pride, anxiety, our deep caring for our own, all combine to shake our self-control.

Like this young father, our hindsight is so often wiser than our foresight. After the report card came home, after his emotional outburst he realized that help at an earlier date would have lessened both his own and his son's disappointment.

JOBS IN B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Employment opportunities for women continue at a good level in most areas of British Columbia, said Horace Keetch, regional director of the Unemployment Insurance Commission. However, many applicants have not the necessary skills and experience, he said.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear-Ann Landers: I've been going with this man for six years. He mentioned marriage after five martinis back in 1957. When I said "yes" he sobered up fast and gave me several reasons why we'd have to wait. He hasn't brought up the subject since.

I am 28, and he is 30. I know he has money saved and his own home paid for. He also bought a new car last year. About twice a week Howard takes out a hard-looking, dish-water blonde who works in the same office. He says she keeps him posted on business gossip and there's no romance there.

I've caught him in several lies and I'm getting fed up on his sponging Sunday dinner off me. He says he loves my cooking.

I've refused several nice fellows who have asked me out because I believe in being true to Howard. My friends say I'm a fool and I'm beginning to think they're right. What shall I tell him?—VY.

Dear VY: Tell him you can't go out with him any more because of illness—you're sick of him.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

HAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1½" stock 1 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show beauty and character of kauri, etc.

PEARANCE?

For homes and buildings with a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Siding is available in random widths from 2-inch in 12-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths and the rustic appearance of grade.

HAT ARE THE ADVANTAGES?

"FOREST" siding, with its natural thickness and grain, wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and softens the building.

The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal. The lap which together with thickness and flush-to-base principle, makes excellent match on the INSULATION material.

"FOREST" siding represents the economy in home building.

Costing less than most types of siding the lap ensures easy fitting and application at less labor

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as mon shiplap. Each piece
"FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. Not only does this protect the wood face, but also brings out natural beauty of the wood.

natural beauty of the knots in the grain. If a colored finish is desired "FOREST" siding easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finish product underneath the (where it will not show) to form a vapor barrier.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Higher mathematics is of no great importance in winning at bridge, but some knowledge of percentages and the laws of probability concerning distribution is helpful. When an even number of cards is missing in a suit—like 2, 4 or 6, it will be more likely than not break unevenly. In helping words, 20, 3-4 and 4-2. However, an uneven number—3, 5 or 7, figure to break evenly; i.e., 3-2 and 4-3.

Today's deal, from a recent tournament, poses an interesting problem. The bidding was fairly normal, although North was close to a four-spade call after South's free response.

West switched to the club three at trick two, and declarer won the ace on the board. Fearing an adverse club ruff, South cashed the trump ace, and led a small spade. West took the king and led another heart to East's ace. The club king, followed by East's last club enabled the defenders to set the hand.

Where had South gone wrong? Correctly recognizing the danger of a club ruff, declarer failed to appreciate the likelihood of a 3-1 trump split. Declarer should have won the club ace at trick two, cashed the ace and king of diamonds; then exited with a heart. East can win and give West a club ruff, but West would then have to lead a red suit or a trump, allowing South to take the trump finesse.

While declarer's play was not altogether unreasonable, it was clearly against the percentages and the law of symmetry. If West's were a singleton, there was a strong probability that East held a "balancing" singleton in spades.

Victoria Borrows Emily Carr Gifts

By INA D. D. UNTHOFF

The story of Emily Carr is too well known to need repetition but some explanation of how the "Emily Carr Trust Collection" was formed may be of interest.

By the terms of her will, 150 canvases became the property of the Province of British Columbia while more than 500 works were put aside to be sold and proceeds used for the Emily Carr scholarship fund, open for competition by young artists of the province.

HOUSING PROBLEM

The problem arose of housing the gift collection suitably. There was no art gallery in Victoria at that time so the obvious thing was to put it in the care of the city of Vancouver.

Many art lovers of substantial means who were keenly interested in the work of Canadian artists immediately promised large sums of money towards the addition of the "Emily Carr Memorial Gallery" to the existing Vancouver Art Gallery.

MATCHING AMOUNTS

And so the "New Vancouver Art Gallery" came into being. The city of Vancouver matched the amount which had been so generously donated by private citizens.

So it is from the Vancouver Art Gallery that our present exhibition of water colors has been borrowed, with the consent of the trustees of the collection.

ON THE SPOT

The line and wash drawings of the Indian totems were done while she was living among the Indians in the Queen Charlotte Islands. They are an "on the spot" record, to be later used in the large canvases which she painted in her studio here.

In themselves they are a valuable record of Indian craftsmanship and design, and of the totem poles which are no longer standing in their original setting.

EMILY CARR
... 'on the spot'

Most of the work was done as far back as 1908 to 1912, which makes it doubly interesting as it gives us an opportunity to study her approach to her problem.

There is one water color,

"Wood Interior," in which she has struggled with her medium in an effort to put on paper her reaction to the design created by the slanting rays of light between the trunks of the tall trees.

START SHOWN

How different this is from the magnificent use she made of similar subjects in the years that followed! But it shows the start of what eventually became some of her finest paintings.

The tremendous power of her brush line is evident in "Koskimo," in "Tanoo" and in "Zunouka."

THIRD DIMENSION

One later painting which interests me very much is "Pines in May." In this the third dimension is so strongly stressed that we feel that we can indeed move around behind the trees she has painted; they exist in space.

For some years she was intensely occupied with this problem of form, and in the freely swinging brush strokes of her final work there is this authority shown in the rocking rhythms and the solidity of her deceptively loose modelling.

Hammarskjold Advises

'Let the Dust Settle' Before Arms Study

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold advised Thursday against any United Nations meetings on the disarmament question at this time.

Hammarskjold took this position at a news conference held while the United States and its western allies disagreed on convoking the UN Disarmament Commission as an aftermath to the collapse of the 10-power talks in Geneva last Monday.

Hammarskjold not only opposed a quick meeting of the disarmament commission but added that he saw no useful possible result from putting the arms question before a special general assembly session or the security council.

"There is always some dust which will settle before you start driving again," Hammarskjold said.

President Says:

Art Gallery Puts Victoria on Map

The Art Gallery of Greater Victoria is doing its part to keep Victoria on the map of Canada.

Gallerist president Dr. Robert Stark said yesterday in his semi-annual report that the gallery "is becoming quite famous throughout the rest of Canada as visitors return eastwards to report what they have seen."

Rising standards of exhibitions have been partly responsible in building the gallery's reputation.

"And now, in the coming season, we are planning an even more important series, beginning with Dutch and Flemish masters from Britain's National Loan Collection Trust, said Dr. Stark.

But, he said, as the range and quality of the gallery's services increase, so do costs of operation.

For the first time in the gallery's history, donations may not be enough to cover costs, he said, and a deficit of as much as $7,000 may result.

Trawler Dive-Bombed

GRIMSBY, England (AP)

The British fishing trawler Grimsby Town today reported it had been "dive-bombed" by an Icelandic aircraft using incendiary flares. The plane swooped down mast-high and hit the vessel with 16 flares, skipper Len Brown said when the trawler returned to port. He said he was outside Iceland's 12-mile limits.

Citizens Made Welcome

Twenty-four new Canadians received their citizenship papers yesterday during a ceremony in Victoria court house conducted by Judge J. B. Clearhue.

Hugh Stephen, a past president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce gave the welcoming address which was followed by a coffee party sponsored by the Victoria Citizenship Council.

The group included Lodewyk Willem Gerard Wertheim Aymes, Maria Trientje Wertheim Aymes, Petrus Johannes Franciscus Boudewyn, Zofia Lila Dabieliski, Bastiaan den Hoed, Christine Hilde Maro Doehnel, Ewald Eschner, Timoteo Floritti, Judith Gjerstad, Herimut Peter Jordt, Wanda Michlina Kenda, Charlotte Anne Marie Lawisch, Dick Yen Lee, Borge Marcussen, Wolfgang Karl Schuldes, Juergen Max Oscar Schultze, Brigitte Erna Schultze, Alfred Storm, Wilma Anna Storm, Ormgard Martha Anna Stubner, Anna Szerlowska, Rozalia Szerlowska, Johanna Marie Henriette Talboom, Mrs. Lee Tin, Reider Kerstein Vatne.

Prosecutor Says:

Attacker Lucky— Nearly a Murder

PORT ALBERNI—A Victoria man was sentenced to 27 months in B.C. Penitentiary after pleading guilty to a charge of breaking into a Port Alberni Chinese club and attacking the manager.

"He's lucky he's not up on a murder charge," said Crown prosecutor Ed Dinsmore before sentence was passed by Magistrate William McLeod on Gunnar Jacobsen, 30.

The unemployed laborer had broken into the Tin Yia Club June 16, attacked the club's manager, Lee Fung, tied him to a bed and gagged him with adhesive tape.

"The tape was so tightly bound around Lee's face he would have suffocated in another two minutes," said Mr. Dinsmore.

Jacobsen was termed "most unco-operative" in not disclosing the name of an accomplice who made off before he could be apprehended by police.

David Wong, about 30, also of Victoria, is at present out on bail of $7,500 on charges connected with the incident. No plea has been entered and he will appear for trial July 13.

More male children than female children were born in the Saanich and Southern Vancouver Island Health Unit during 1959, the unit's report for that year shows.

Only 770 girls were born during the year, compared with 839 boys. Stillbirths over the whole area were less than 1 per cent.

Major cause of death was heart disease, which took 239 lives—almost 39 per cent of all deaths during the year. Cancer killed 114 persons.

Fulton Raises Possibility

Even On First Offence

OTTAWA (CP) — The possibility of a maximum life sentence for drug trafficking—even for first offenders—was raised Thursday by Justice Minister Fulton.

Regarding drug trafficking sentences—the present maximum is 14 years—Mr. Fulton said in the Commons:

AMEND ACT

"... It would be our proposal to amend the act so that there might be a life sentence imposed even for the first offence; I refer not to a mandatory life sentence. ... That will depend, of course, on the circumstances and the nature of the crime."

He said the federal plan for treatment of narcotic addicts will force treatment on proven addicts who don't want it.

COMMITTED

Government legislation will be introduced soon providing that in cases where addicts are not sentenced to treatment they can either come forward voluntarily or be committed for treatment on the certificate of a properly-qualified examiner.

SIMILAR PROVISION

He hoped provincial governments would make a similar provision for non-criminal addicts. Mr. Fulton said the approach would be similar to that in dealing with mental illness, where persons can be committed to an institution when they are considered "dangerous to society."

'Obvious, Ominous Conflict' Charged by Defence Critic

(Special to the Colonist)

OTTAWA—A sharp clash between the department of external affairs and the defence department over the signing of an agreement with the United States to obtain supplies of nuclear warheads for new weapons in Canada appeared apparent from developments in the defence expenditures committee Thursday.

Parliament has been informed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Defence Minister George Pearkes that negotiations are underway with the United States. But External Affairs Minister Howard Green, has informed the committee that no negotiations have been conducted by his department for the storage of nuclear warheads at Canadian bases.

"There is an obvious and perhaps ominous conflict" between Mr. Pearkes and Mr. Green over the conclusion of an agreement with the United States to make the warheads available to Canadian forces, Paul Hellyer, Liberal opposition defence critic, charged at the committee Thursday.

WHAT STAGE?

The former associate defence minister in the Liberal cabinet, made the charge after attempting for an hour to obtain a clear-cut statement from the government as to the stage at which negotiations stand with the U.S. government. The negotiations are understood to have been going on with the U.S. for 17 months concerning the acquisition of atomic weapons for Canadian forces.

The government's hesitancy about announcing a nuclear policy seems to have developed since Mr. Green took over the external affairs portfolio a year ago, according to Canadian Press.

DECIDED TO ACQUIRE

It was assumed then and until recently that the government had definitely decided to acquire nuclear weapons for Canadian forces.

But on March 10 this year Mr. Green indicated a retreat from such a policy.

ASKED IN COMMONS

He was asked in the Commons external affairs committee whether it was still the decision of the government to use nuclear warheads.

"You will have to ask that of the defence department," Mr. Green replied.

HOW TO RECONCILE

He was asked how he could reconcile unqualified opposition to nuclear tests with acceptance of nuclear weapons for Canadian forces which could be developed only by tests.

"This is really a matter for the defence people," Mr. Green said. His department was "sticking to its own knitting."

"There are reports that Mr. Pearkes has been pressing for an early conclusion of an agreement with Washington but that Mr. Green is holding back determined that no such agreement should be signed if there is any chance of reaching a disarmament agreement," Mr. Hellyer said.

China Fights Fierce Wind

TOKYO (AP)—Peking radio said Thursday "a fierce battle is being waged against typhoon Olive" in the Chankiang area, southern Kwangtung province, South China.

In stricken areas, the people are "fighting on the dikes and dams against the torrents resulting from the storm. In the fields thousands more are gathering the ripened early rice."

Make Holiday Safe Job for All Drivers

Victoria's deputy police chief Harry Mercer last night appealed to motorists to guarantee themselves a safe holiday weekend on the road.

He advised: Be particularly alert in heavy traffic. Don't drive for more than

Nepalese Killing Regretted

LONDON (UPI)—Premier Chou En-lai has told Nepal that he is "greatly concerned" that Chinese forces killed a Nepalese officer.

The new China News Agency reported from London Thursday that Premier Chou has promised to investigate.

This week the prime minister of Nepal, B. P. Koirala, protested to Communist China for the incident in which a Nepalese officer was killed and 16 men captured by 2,000 Chinese troops near the boundary between Nepal and China.

Alberni Centennial in Full Swing

Ancient ox-cart used in logging operations more than 70 years ago will be put on permanent display at Port Alberni's city hall at the conclusion of the Alberni Val-

Nikita Naps at Opera

By EDDY GILMORE

VIENNA (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev fell asleep Thursday night during the famed Vienna state opera's presentation of Mozart's "Magic Flute."

But Khrushchev didn't sleep long. Mozart's opera is full of thunder, lightning, crashing cymbals and booming drums. Even Khrushchev couldn't sleep through that.

The 66-year-old premier—who arrived here on a state visit this morning—could hardly be blamed for his lapse.

He was tired—and justly so. To get here at 10:30 a.m. from Moscow meant he had to rise shortly after dawn.

And ever since he arrived he's been busy.

He placed two wreaths, made two speeches, shook hundreds of hands, carried out three official calls, and ate a tremendous luncheon in a former palace of the Hapsburgs.

Thursday night's opera was a glittering gala affair, staged in the beautifully rebuilt Opera House which was burned out during the Second World War.

Protocol called for tuxedos and black ties.

The Soviet leader showed up in a four-in-hand white tie and a black suit.

After the performance—which ran 25 minutes longer than scheduled—the official party thanked the performers personally.

"Only in Vienna," said Khrushchev, "can you see opera like this."

'Imagine a Sailor in Underwear!'

Brunch? Well, I Never!... On a Naval Ship!

By JAMES K. NESBITT

A long, nostalgic sigh for "the good old days" of the Canadian Navy, before the 1939-45 war, was heaved by Lieut. Edward A. MacFadyen, R.C.N., when he spoke to Victoria section, B.C. Historical Association.

Lieut. MacFadyen, retired curator of Maritime Museum at Esquimalt, brought the Commodore into Victoria harbor during B.C. centennial celebrations two summers ago.

"In the good old days we had one quart of drinking water per day, per man—perhaps!" he said. "It had to do for our tea, too—and we found cold tea excellent for shaving."

Lieut. MacFadyen, who went to sea at 14, in the merchant navy, said there's only one way in which to sleep aboard a naval vessel—in a hammock, in the altogether.

"Today they have pyjamas—beautiful pyjamas—and they have underwear, too. Imagine a sailor in underwear! Why, it was unknown in the good old days—we pulled our pants up over our bare skin."

Today's sailors sleep on foam rubber mattresses, in

bunks and beds, and they have pillows: "Imagine a pillow in the navy—I couldn't sleep on one of those foam rubber things—there's nothing like a hammock, the deck, or a board."

In the good old days, he said, Canadian sailors of 30 years ago had to get up at 5.30 a.m.—and they were awakened by a tough, rough, roaring voice

—and they had to be on their feet in one minute—or else!

"Today," he said, "they're awakened by a soft pleasant voice at 7."

He told of his shock, on a naval vessel not long ago at 11 a.m., when he heard the call: "All hands to brunch."

"What's going on around here?" he asked, and was informed that on certain days in port nearly everyone sleeps in, and combines breakfast and lunch at 11 a.m.

"What is this anyway?" he asked. "A swank hotel?—in my day it was up spirits at 11; now they've upped the allowance to 10 cents if you don't take grog—not that there's anything wrong with being temperance, even in the navy. But brunch—well, I never!—

on a naval ship!" Sailors before the war darned their own socks, washed their clothes in salt water: "Wonder how many sailors today could do those chores?"

Dr. R. M. Lane presided at the meeting. Lieut. MacFadyen was thanked by Miss Kathleen Agnew. Peter Richards showed colored slides of recent historic events in Victoria.

Lake Cowichan

Crumbling Centre Closes Doors

LAKE COWICHAN—The old, wobbly community hall closed its doors yesterday for the last time in 30 years.

It was closed for good by the board of governors after a "severe setback" was received in plans to replace it. A committee was informed by the village commission that under the Municipal Act it could not sponsor a money bylaw.

HOPED TO REPLACE

The board had hoped to replace the 30-year-old building, with its front crumbling away from the walls, by holding a plebiscite in the village.

"The act states the commission can't back us," said Henry Lundgren, chairman of a committee appointed to find ways of getting a new hall. "We'll have to reappraise our whole position now."

FINANCIAL KNOWLEDGE

A meeting is expected to be called shortly, with members of the community with a knowledge of finances, called on to help the committee.

"Maybe we'll be able to sell bonds through the community club," said Mr. Lundgren. "It means, though, a lot more work."

SOLD TO BOARD

It looks as though the building and property will be sold to the school board.

"It wasn't fit to be used," said Alf Dillon, secretary of the board of governors. "It brought in only $125 in the last six months and the expenses were $100 a month. It'll be felt throughout the community, but the building just didn't warrant a lot of expense."

CHURCH, THEATRE

Before it was turned into a community hall, it was a church and theatre. A concrete slab was built into the upper front to hold projection equipment, but the weight is causing it to crumble.

It was being used by Scouts, fire warden, guides, a flower show, bowling banquets, mis-

Wicks Hails Pulp Pact

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks last night expressed pleasure at a settlement reached in working-agreement negotiations in B.C.'s pulp industry.

The settlement, he said, had been overwhelmingly approved by pulp and sulphite workers, and "I want to congratulate all concerned on a fine job and express pleasure at the continued harmony in the industry."

Here It Is, Nanaimo!

Nanaimo residents will be able to relax again. Provincial government workmen yesterday amended the sign at left at Victoria outlet to show that the highway to Nanaimo is also a ferry route. Nanaimo was up in arms when only the Patricia Bay highway sign at right referred to ferries.

Nanaimo Success Spurs New Action

Duncan—Mayor Jack Dobson said yesterday the shopping mall idea is "far from dead" here.

But it is now in the hands of the retail division, Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, to find out if businessmen are in favor of it.

Retail president A. F. Seod said yesterday a meeting has been called for Tuesday where it is expected businessmen will give an indication of the feelings, "especially since Nanaimo was so successful."

The meeting will be at 10 a.m. in the Alderlea. Any interested persons will be welcome.

Mayor Dobson said that no definite plans have been formulated by city council, but that it had been discussed during a committee meeting Monday night. The mall was suggested by city engineer Russell Potter during the winter.

Other Island News

Mr. Seod said many ideas will likely be discussed. A mall trial with the opening of the city's civic parking lot and co-operation with merchants with "Duncan Day specials" would likely be proposed. Engineer Potter proposed the mall in the block of Station Street between Canada and Craig. Stalls could be set up in the middle of the streets with other attractions, as well as children's play areas.

CAMPBELL RIVER — A public appeal has been launched for funds to help pay for the new $20,000 swimming pool now under construction here. All donations may be left at either the Royal Bank or the Bank of Commerce or at the village office.

Mill Closed for Week

CHEMUNUS—The MacMillan, Blount and Powell River Co. mill will be closed for a week starting July 14 for the annual general overhaul. No major work is planned.

NORTH COWICHAN — All five members of the council will attend the Union of B.C. Municipalities' annual convention at Victoria on Sept. 21, 22 and 23.

CAMPBELL RIVER — During the first five months of this year 33 building permits were issued, bringing $247 into the village coffers.

LAKE COWICHAN — J. D. Parks, newly-hired family counsellor, will start work here Monday. His one-day-a-month job here is being paid by the Lake Cowichan branch, Canadian Mental Health Association, in an agreement with Nanaimo. Mr. Parks, a social graduate from University of Toronto, will have an office in the health unit, South Shore Road.

DUNCAN — Work has begun on the St. John's Anglican Church extending the building 20 feet toward Jubilee.

Other improvements to be made this summer will be re-roofing, re-siding and stuccoing. A new entrance is to be made off Jubilee Street, moving it from First Street.

CAMPBELL RIVER — C. C. Nelson has been appointed traffic control officer in the village for the summer months when congestion is at its peak.

Postal Wickets Open

DUNCAN — Stamp, general delivery and registration wickets will be open at the post office today from 9 to 11 a.m.

The box lobby will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. There will be no rural mail delivery.

COMOX — Two Comox Wolf Cubs will receive awards for meritorious conduct along with five other Scouts and four leaders, Chief Scout Governor-General George Vanier announced yesterday.

The pair, Richard Hunter, 10, and John Mortley, 10, of Comox RCAF station rescued

a playmate, Billy Hingley, from drowning after he fell in a deep water-filled pit.

NORTH COWICHAN — Water consumption at Maple Bay and Crofton is increasing but there is no indication yet of a water shortage.

During May 791,162 gallons of water were pumped to 125 consumers at Maple Bay, averaging 204 gallons a day per household.

At Crofton, 1,018,810 gallons of water were used by 168 consumers, or 195 gallons per house.

Bus Permit Refused

CAMPBELL RIVER — RCMP have refused to renew the permit for the school bus on the Willow Point route. It has run for more than 150,000 miles. Village commissioners gave the school board permission to buy a new bus.

DUNCAN — Member of Loyal Orange Association, William Frederick Simpson, 76, died yesterday at Mary Moore Salvation Army Hospital at Cobble Hill.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for the Cowichan resident who lived in the district for 17 years. Born in Quebec, he farmed in Saskatchewan until coming to Vancouver in 1941 and then here two years later.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. William Sellers, Mrs.

Percy Trousdale, and Mrs. James Locke, all of Duncan, and a brother, David Simpson, Paradise Hill, Saskatchewan. Services will start at 11 a.m. Burial will be in the Mountain View Cemetery.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Village commissioners have agreed to the setting aside of 50 feet of parking area in front of the RCMP office on the wharf side of the Island Highway.

CAMPBELL RIVER — B.C. Power Commission chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside has shown little enthusiasm for a proposal that power be taken to the municipal airport.

The new installation would cost $10,000 and it is felt this cost is not justified for only one customer.

old municipal yard site, lower, where a large, integrated shopping centre will be built, and north of it the site overlooking Swan Lake where the municipality will build a $1,000,000 civic centre.

Beaches, Parks Lure Hundreds to Highways

Vancouver Island highways were busy tourist thoroughfares last night as city dwellers in cars carrying tents and boats got an early start on the long, holiday weekend.

The travellers today can take in any number of special events being held around the Island from Sidney to Port Alberni.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Traffic was heavier than normal through Nanaimo last night, said RCMP, and a "considerable number" of cars carrying camping gear passed through Sidney, said a B.C. government ferry service official.

Sidney's celebrations will start at 11.30 a.m. with a parade from Queens and Fifth to War Memorial Park where the following events are scheduled:

QUEEN-CROWNING

A queen-crowning ceremony at noon followed by displays of the Saanich Small Bore Gun Club under strict police supervision, providing residents' request is great enough. In recent weeks many residents complained of marauding crows. Callers asked RCMP whether it was legal to shoot the pesky birds.

RCMP Corporal William Stanton said last night it was all right for residents to shoot crows providing they asked permission. North Saanich is not a closed area.

He added there was less danger of accidents in an organized shoot.

Steps will be taken to eliminate a surplus population of crows in the North Saanich area.

Rough Sea Hits Centennial Ship

Parade,
Music
Today

PORT ALBERNI — A rough sea and a recalcitrant engine played havoc with the schedule when the landing of this district's Mayflower, the "Meg Merilees," was re-enacted Wednesday as a feature of the centennial celebrations.

The celebrations continue today with a grand centennial parade at 11:30 a.m., followed by band concerts and drill team displays in the afternoon.

PIONEERS

The five men and a woman, all residents of the Alberni for 50 years or more, who made the trip on a whaler manned by Boy Scouts and their leader arrived on the site of the old Anderson sawmill, built here in 1860, and were greeted by the Mayor and aldermen of Port Alberni, a throng of pioneers and others after an unexpectedly rough voyage.

IMPERSONATORS

Later they were among those who attended an open air council meeting in which Mayor Loran Jordon impersonated the city's first mayor, A. E. Waterhouse. Members of his council read their scripts prepared from minutes of the first council meeting held on April 1, 1912, and appointed R. F. Blandy, whose role was taken by H. Dennis Thain, as first city clerk at a salary of $75 a month.

CHAIRMAN

Old timers, all residents of the area for 50 years or more, attended the gala banquet in Elks Hall, where master of ceremonies was Ald. J. R. Dalton, chairman of the centennial committee. Jack V. Hills, son of a family which arrived in Alberni in 1885, was guest speaker, dealing with the early settlement and with the history of the lumber industry.

He paid tribute to the pioneers whose courage and sense of adventure had conquered the wilderness. Mayor Loran Jordon for Port Alberni and Ald. Fred Bishop for Alberni welcomed the guests.

First Centennial Rite

Official opening of Alberni Valley Four-Day centennial celebrations took place Wednesday with dedication of this "Columbus Tree"—so named because it was a mere seedling when Columbus discovered America in 1492. Teen-Town's Valerie Wins Alberni Centennial Crown

PORT ALBERNI—Valerie Pralsley, 18-year-old brunette representative of Alberni District Teen-Town, was crowned Centennial Queen here Wednesday night after being chosen by a panel of judges at a Chamber of Commerce dance.

One of six candidates in the chamber-sponsored contest, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pralsley of Sproat Lake. As Miss Port Alberni, she will be this district's Miss PNE candidate. She is a Grade 12 student at Alberni District High School.

Cabinet Going To Ganges

GANGES—At the invitation of the Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and his cabinet will meet at Ganges July 14, it was announced at a council meeting of the chamber.

Chamber President D. G. Crofton is setting up a committee which will make the necessary arrangements.

Big Tanker Lost

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI)—The Atlantic claimed the disabled tanker George MacDonald 60 miles from shore Wednesday, ending a long fight to save the ship. Its 130,000 barrels of heavy fuel oil were lost.
